Would the increase in enrollment at Brush High School cause the school to become a 4A school district?...

How would the state constitution's new tax laws affect the future of the school?...

Or, on a personal level, what would the immediate future hold for each person during the year '92-93'? What would be our destination?

As we all caress each new year , there are a lot of questions unanswered. As the doors open in many new directions, our minds come to the questions of "Where do we go? What do we do?"

Deep in each individual's mind there is a dream. But, though we know our dreams today, tomorrow's outcome is unknown.

DESTINATION!

Brring! The first bell of the new school year sounded through the once empty, but now heavily-populated halls.

One saw freshmen wandering aimlessly from classroom to classroom looking for Mr. Miner's Physical Science class. While the freshmen feared the beginning of high school, the juniors and seniors were wondering what they were going to do after high school. Sophomores, on the other hand, were wondering what they were going to do on the weekend, now that the fearful freshman year was past and they were getting their licenses.

With activites in full swing, many wondered what the new schoolyear would bring.

Fall Play Our Town Enjoys Much Success

Our Town was an excellent performance involving an outstanding cast that knew their lines very well. The fall play had a large audience both nights that it was shown November 12-13. People commented that they really liked it.

Our Town is a story of daily life during the early 1900's in a New England town. It was about the intimate lives of two families whose destinies crossed when their children decided to marry. The tragedy started when Emily Webb died from child-birth. After dying, Emily is granted the opportunity to re-visit her life and friends as a spirit. While doing this she discovers her disappointment in what she could have changed, and what she did wrong.

The play ends when Emily Webb returns to her grave and rests in peace.

Homecoming '92!

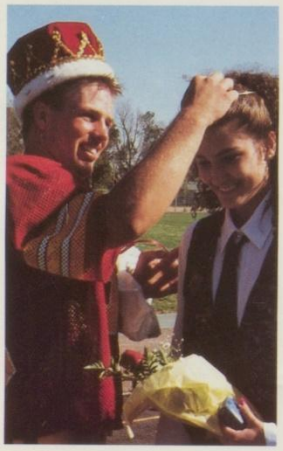

Spirit week started off Homecoming '92 with exciting dress-up days and noontime activities, and ended with a league-deciding football game over Platte Valley with a score of 21-7.

The homecoming success was recognized by many of the students. Senior Becky Rediess said, "This year was more exciting because everybody got involved." Freshman Todd Schreiner said, "The noontime activities were funky." Sophomore Jenny Vigil commented, "The dance and eating out were the best part of the week."

Brandon, Brown Are Snowball Royalty

"When I was crowned queen at the Snowball dance, I was really surprised," commented Cresta Brown.

Music providers for the annual Brush High School Snowball Dance on Friday, January 8, were Colorado Light and Sound of Denver.

The theme, "Let It Snow," was appropriate considering the accumulation of "white stuff" that had surrounded BHS since early in November. A fresh layer of snow even fell during the evening.

Seniors Shane Brandon and Cresta Brown were named as King and Queen, while Juniors Phillip McDonald and Leighanna Grupp, Sophomores Chad Guthrie and Lisa Kendrick, and Freshmen Brad Guthrie and Erika Queen were named as other class royalty.

Other students selected as candidates included the following:

SENIORS: Ben Brunner, Jason Mills, Troy Ocanas, Carol Holmes, Cynda Eklund and Kristie Smith.

JUNIORS: Gene Roberts, Bert Garza, Ben Schreiner, Melissa Weisser, Amanda Becker and Kim Gotto.

FRESHMEN: Brian Budde, Randy Pfost, Mike Headley, Jackie Shavlik, Carrie Barnett and Sonia Mohrlang.

New Year, New Events...

A new school year begins and with it brings many new trends to be played out by the student body and annual events to replace ourselves with new memories of the past events.

The one trend that seemed to be most popular with almost everyone as school began was the beaded necklaces. The simplest style of this was a couple of different varities of beads strung together to form a common pattern. Some people tended to choose the more creative path by having necklaces that were made with more intriqute patterns completed with an eye-catching display of many colors.

Need some good luck? Grab your favorite troll. These cute and fuzzy-haired little creatures popped up everywhere. You could find them on keychains, in students' lockers hanging out together, on people's hands for rings, or even yet in pairs for earrings. No matter where you looked, they were just around the corner.

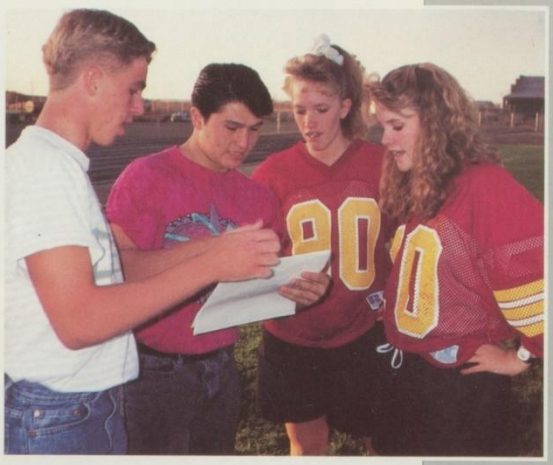

A trend that became a little bit more popular in the music scene was alternative. Such bands that have risen to popularity with the students included Red Hot Chili Peppers, Nirvana, and Pearl Jam.

Mike Llewellyn commented on the rise of alternative music. "It was dumb when I listened to it." But times are changing, and everyone was soon hearing more from the different and sidestream music world.

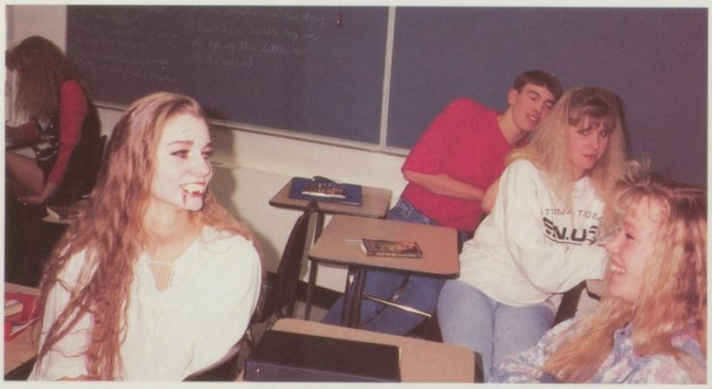

Usually about a month into the school year is the BHS homecoming week which leads into annual events of the fall. During the end of October STAND (Students Taking A New Direction) Club sponsored the Red Ribbon Week to make students aware of drug and alcohol problems. A number of noon-time activities were incorporated as one way to observe the week.

To celebrate Halloween, Student Council decided to hold its annual sock-hop, but with a Halloween twist.

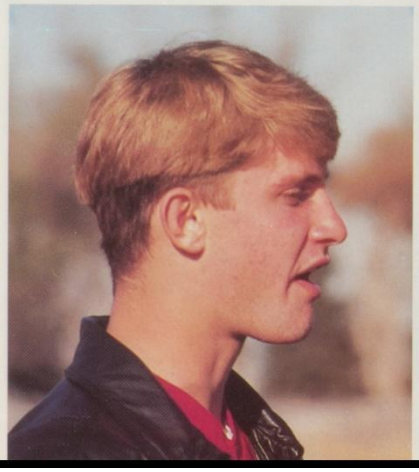

With many events and activities to participate in, Brush High School students found themselves enjoying a very busy fall.

Making the Right

Choices: ACADEMICS

Umm...

What classes should I take this year? I wonder if I'll learn anything new this year?

I wonder if the classes I decide to take will affect my destination? Although I know what I want out of life, I'm still not sure what classes I'll need to pursue a career.

These are just some of the questions that students ask themselves each spring, when they pre-register.

Here's what some Brush High School students had to say about their registration experiences:

Bill Rudel: "I chose most of my classes because of what I want to do after I graduate, which is business management."

Angie Bain: "I chose the classes because they're required."

Dan Kendrick: "I took most of my classes because they dealt with what I need in college."

So, there we have it... most of the reasons why classes are chosen. But what about conflicting class schedules, early college options and the classes one would like to take just for the different experiences? Well, once again... The destination is unknown.

Fine Arts Offer

Full Culture Curriculum

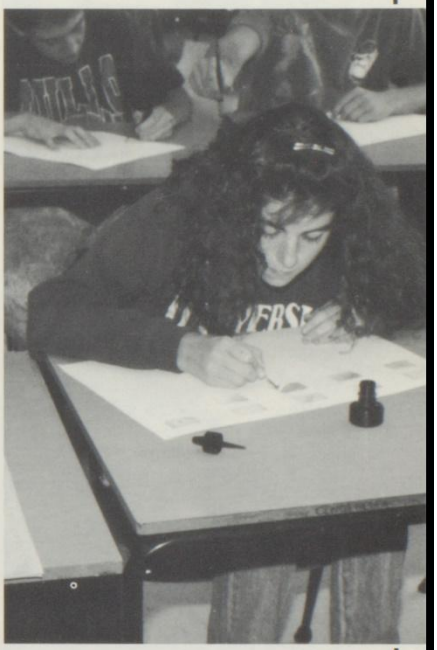

Brush High offers a full range of arts and music classes for student enrichment. Students in Mr. Terrell Sumner's art classes study ink, watercolor, and do some of their own projects the first year. Second year and older students get to work on projects for the entire year. Another division of the art department is the drafting class taught by Mr. Brones.

MANUEL ORTIZ WORKSon a drawing during art class.

The band classes under Mr. Brad Persinger played a wide variety of music including jazz and big band. The band also marched in parades and at some of the football and basketball games throughout the year. The choir met fourth hour and the select groups met seventh hour with both groups performing in concerts throughout the school year.

Vocational Classes Main Reason

For Later Careers In Life

TROY OCANAS AND Brock Brady work in the Digger Depot as a business course.

DAVE GATES, SHAWN STEWART, and Mr. Brones work on a profect for Woods.

What are vocational classes? They are classes specifically designed for the development of a vocational career and include classes that are offered in the Home Economics, Business, Industrial Arts, Auto Mechanics, and Argriculture departments.

The classes are (Home Economics): Family Living, Single Survial, and Child Development; (Business): Accounting, Marketing, Business Office Education, and Consumer Business; (Industrial Arts): Woodworking and Drafting; (Auto Mechanics): Autobody and Electronics; (Agriculture): Welding and Ag 1,2,3,4.

Why do students take these classes: will they use them for later purposes, or are they more enjoyable than core classes?

Dan Kendrick believes that it is better than a core class, saying, "The classes will help me later in life." Stacy Golding also commented, "Consumer Business will help me later in life."

COMPUTER TECHNOLOGY TEACHER MRS. ATKIN instructs her freshman class on what to do next.

Most students know them as required classes: English, Math, Science and Social Studies. Everyone has to take these courses throughout the high school career.

Opinions vary about them. Sophomore Stacy Golding feels that these courses will help her in her future. Other students say they feel taking core courses in certain areas are a waste of their time if their career plans do not require them.

Many wonder why there aren't any weighted classes offered during the freshman year. Brad Schiller said he thinks that it would be a good idea to have weighted classes offered earlier and to offer more of them. He feels that weighted classes could help out one's GPA and allow students who aren't having any problems more of a challenge.

Another topic students often have been curious about is advanced placement (AP) courses. While BHS offers the weighted courses, AP courses have not been a part of the curriculum.

Junior Sean Kelly commented, "Offering AP classes could cause problems once you reach college. You could be placed into a higher level course you aren't ready for." He felt this could cause you to fall behind and become overwhelmed with work you don't completely understand how to do.

Some students had to drop classes they were already enrolled in in order to obtain enough credits to graduate. This happened to Missy Vigil, who thinks that the counselors should talk to the students in this situation earlier so they don't have to drop any classes at the semester.

The electives chosen this year by many students has given each individual a chance to learn and experience more. Asking students why they chose the electives they did, they responded differently.

"I like being a Teacher's Aide because I enjoy having the independence, and like most of the teachers," says Cynda Eklund.

"I think taking photography will teach me to finally learn how to use a camera, instead of just clicking the button," responds Michelle Guzman.

There are many electives students can chose from. For most students having electives allows them to try new things and spend some of their school time doing things they enjoy.

Larger Attendance,
More Time for

CLUBS

Club attendance made a huge change in '92-'93 with club time reinstated during the school day. As a result, more students became involved.

Although many may not realize it, extra curricular activities greatly enhance college transcripts and job applications. In addition, many students who graduate report that their most memorable high school times were spent in activities.

The Associated Press also reported that in a study conducted by the Colorado High School Activities Association, those who particpate in activities have lower absentee rates and get higher grades than those who do not participate!

FBLA Has Year of Conflicts

Due to semester finals, inservice days, and many conflicts with schedules FBLA had a limit of meetings. However, FBLA officers attended a leadership conference Nov. 19. They had the pleasure of hearing an enjoyable keynote speaker and a chance to attend different workshops. The officers were President Trish Tavenner, Vice President Cynda Eklund, Treasurer Missy Vigil, and Secretary Jaime Bostron.

FBLA members attended a district conference at NJC in Sterling, and three FBLA members placed in the top ten. Missy Vigil placed seventh in Information Processing Concepts, Jaime Bostron placed seventh in Job Interview, and Trish Tavenner also placed eigth in Job Interview.

"Due to the weather we had problems scheduling activities, but overall I had a great year," said Jaime Bostron.

FHA Helps Community

Future Homemakers of America (FHA) was a very busy club in the 1992-93 year. First of all they had their annual Sunset Manor dinner dance. Sponsor Mrs. Cyndi Hofmeister commented, "I like seeing the people from Sunset Manor come back every year. Each year you make new friends, too."

They also collected newspapers and cans with the Environmental Club. This was to earn funds for a tuition scholarship for a preschooler.

At the district contests held at Northeastern Junior College, Heather Doane, Maureen Kelley, and Cathy Garcia won third in Family Communications. Mrs. Hofmeister said there were more first time members and contestants involved than in the last five years.

FHA also helped create a district-wide Nutrition Buster Book, which is an activity book to help parents and students with nutrition.

DECA: 14 Make State

Distributive Educational Clubs of America is an extension of marketing classes. During the year the club had several fundraisers for field trips and other group projects. Some of the fundraisers included selling spirit flowers for homecoming week, selling concessions, and selling T-shirts.

At the district competition, fourteen members qualified for the state competition . At state, the chapter publicity manual placed sixth, while Joe Artery placed ninth and Cindi Merritt eleventh in their respective contests.

Nathan Kelley was inducted as the District and Regional Vice President. Gary Heer served as the District Publicity Director andwas elected State Publicity Director for '93-'94. New DECA club sponsor, Mr. Alan Thimmig said this about his first year: "It was hectic, but exciting to see how involved my students were."

HOSA, Health Occupational Students of America is sponsored by the Allied Health class at Morgan Community Colllege, which some Brush students attend to learn more about health occupations.

Juniors Stacy Alexander, Natosha Balderston, and Kathy Espinoza said they enrolled in Allied health because they were interested in a pursuing careers dealing in health.

One activity that HOSA did was sell suckers for the American Heart Association. They also had district and state competitions in different areas of health, like medical spelling, physical therapy, first aid, and CPR. Some also competed in the HOSA BOWL.

Annan Completes 13th Year as FFA Sponsor

With Sponsor Bill Annan in his thirteenth FFA "season," the Brush FFA started off the year with their trip to the state convention, where they qualified to compete in the parlimentary procedure competition. They then proceeded to the mountains for a camping exibition.

Allen Halley served as a second year president with Danny Kendrick as treasurer, Ryan Draegert as reporter, Andy Grandy as sentinal, and Ann Hergenreter as secretary.

The club took the annual trip to the stock show in early January and held their oyster fry/auction later in the month. Freshman Brad Dempsey was sold for the highest bid...$140.

During National FFA week the members had an opportunity to drive their tractors to school and compete in daily activities such as the hay stacking, tractor driving, buck saw, cow pie throwing, and nail driving contests.

FFA had over twenty-five members this year and was one of the most involved clubs at BHS.

One of the School's Largest Clubs

B-Club, one of the larger clubs in the school, had a little over 50 members and was led by President Danny Kendrick. Anybody who had earned a varsity letter is eligible to join along with paying a five dollar fee at the beginning of the school year.

Mr. Dillehay, the club sponsor said, "I think I've got some really good club leaders. The club provided the sports posters and pocket schedules which is over $600."

The other officers were Vice President, Allan Halley, and Secretary/Treasurer, Jason Mills.

Cheerleaders Experience the Pluses and Minuses

The 1992-1993 cheerleading squad consisted of ten cheerleaders total; however, only nine were able to attend camp in late July at CSU. Melissa Weisser was unable to attend, as she was in recovery after a summer car accident. While attending camp they were proud recipients of the NCA spirit stick. Soon after their return home they were pleased to find out that Mrs. Melissa Hess would be joining Mrs. Dorthy Thruston as the sponsors for the new year.

Due to disappointing and confusing circumstances the squad members were always changing but they stuck together and finished off the year strong.

Activities Promote STAND's Purpose

STAND is an abbreviation for Students Taking A New Direction. This club spends a great deal of time putting activities together for the student body. They try to get the students to be involved in certain health and safety-related practices, such as Drug FreeWeek and using seatbelts.

Some of the events that took place during Drug Free Week were a cherry pie eating contest, red egg throwing contest, red wagon race, dressing up in black and red, and tying red ribbons on cars and lockers.

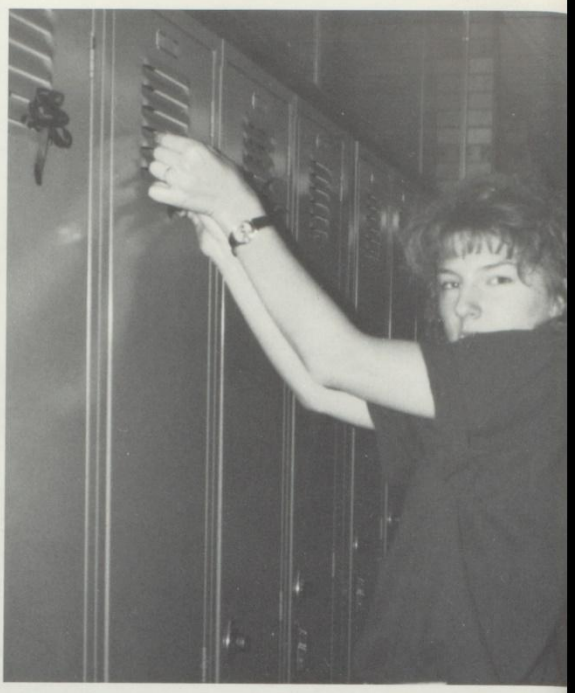

They had a large turnout at the annual STAND Drive-In. They had three movies to choosefrom: Beauty and the Beast, The Cutting Edge, and Encino Man. The requirements to be able to get in free were that one had to come with a cardboard box car with a seatbelt"installed" and worn.

Members had a blood drive instead of skit. They also wrote a prom contract. The most effective activity within the whole Brush School district was Red Ribbon Week, according to Sponsor Mrs. Deb Calhoun. She also felt Melissa Weisser's talk to students during the safety belt assemblies was a positive effect.

Moving the club time back into the school day allowed a much larger participation over the previous year, giving more students a chance to be involved.

Language Clubs Have Busy Year

The Spanish and French Clubs are supervised by Mrs. Perry, the foreign language teacher. These clubs meet on Wednesday and Thursday of the second and fourth week of the month.

Spanish Club sold Santa sacks to students and teachers during Christmas time. They also enjoyed trips to Los Tres Amigos to eat for fun. They took a trip to Denver on March 18 to see Spanish dancers and to Casa Bonita.

French Club wasn'quite as active; however, they did celebrate Chaneleur, a French holiday. Eating crepes and other French cuisine is part of their yearly activities.

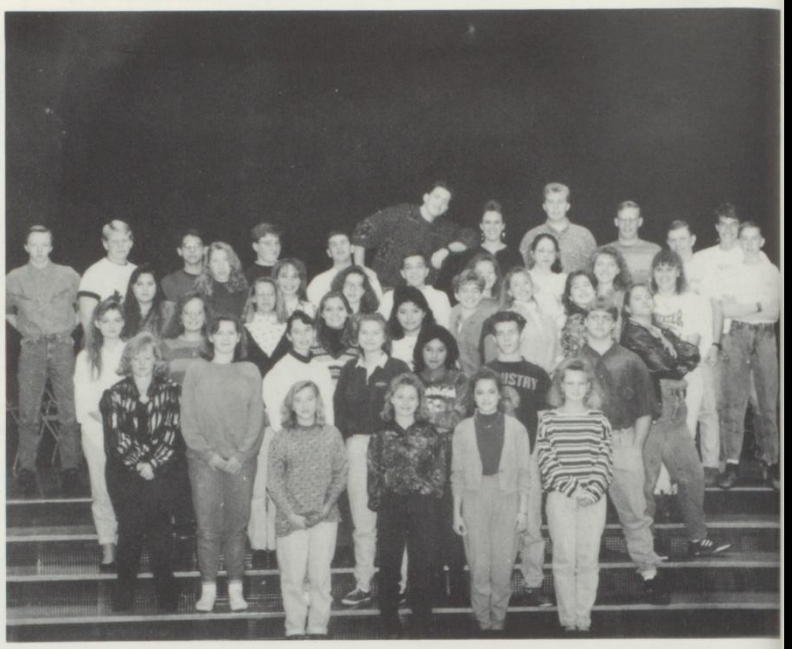

Drama, One-Acts Performed

The Drama Club is quite interesting for people who like performing in front of others. Erin Bradshaw was elected president, and Ben Brunner vice president.

The club consists of working on and performing plays for the student body and community. It is a team effort, "Most people involved with the cast are involved with the crew also," commented Sponsor Mrs. Blickhahn.

In the fall they performed the hit play Our Town. In the spring they did three one-act plays.They were The Slumber Party, a mystery comedy, La Llorona, a drama, and Curse You, Jack Dalton, a melodrama.

These plays were received well by the audiences. " Being in drama is loads of fun. We have fun, but we do a lot of work also. There is a lot of behind the scenes stuff going on," said Junior Jenny Butterbaugh.

Music Under New Leadership

The select music groups were led by a new director, Mr. Brad Persinger.

The chior council members were Jason Mills, Ronda Marshall, Shawn Cook, and Amy Teter.

The choir performed in the winter concert. In December they peformed for a local nursing home, and they performed at the Greeley Mall. They also put on a public concert in the spring.

The jazz band was in a winter and two spring concerts. They attended the UNC Jazz festival in April.

Some students also participated in the solo and ensemble contests in Fort Morgan. The concert band also competed in a large group contest in Sterling.

THE CONCERT BAND performed for several public concerts under the direction of Mr. Brad Persinger.

THE COLORGUARD MEMBERS included Anne Gaspers, Shelly Miller, Leighanna Grupp, Kendra Kirsch, Beth Blake, Kelly Amen, Joy Tapia.

K-Bowl Increases Members

Knowledge Bowl was unlike any other clubs. They didn't have any club officers, and the members took turns at participating in their events.

Knowledge Bowl ncreased in club membership over the previous year, but there were only nine to ten active members who competed in their contests. The rest of their members never went to the meets.

Senior Amy Johnson was top competitor for the A team. However, they did not have set A and B teams, because not all of the individuals went to the meets and they had to substitute. They competed against Platte Valley, Yuma, and Eaton.

A new sponsor, Mr. Jim Weimer, joined Mrs. Judy Florian. The sponsors met with students twice monthly at club time and Thursday mornings for practice.

Environmental/ Clearing House:

Clubs for the Community

Clearing House and Environmental club are two BHS clubs that participate a lot with the community.

Clearing House provides social activities, games, and treats for students in special education in all Brush schools, adults from Eben Ezer, the Gayle Street and the Cotton Street homes.

Clearing House officers were President Stacy Alexander, VicePresident Kari Doane, and Secretary/Treasurer, Amanda Lackey.

Clearing House put on a dance and game night for Halloween, sent Christmas treats to all students in special education classes in all Brush schools, and made Valentine cards for all special education students. They helped with Special Olympic Bowling in Greeley, and they had a pizza party at the end of the year.

Environmental Club officers included President Mark Gebauer; Vice President Katy Wagers, and Secretary Michelle Guzman. Environmental Club promotes environmental ideals, to get people involvedin helping the environment.

An environmental dance, recycling throughout the school, and promoting Environmental Week were among their projects. The group also became members of "Green Peace" and the "Arbor Day Foundation."

Mills Leads Honor Society

Honor Society Officers included Jason Mills as president, Kim Gotto as vice president/president-elect, and Melissa Weisser as secretary.

During the fall, several members of Honor Society went to help with the Special Olympics in Greeley. In April they had their field trip. Their annual tapping of new members into the society took place in the spring as usual, highlighted by the introduction of new officers at the dinner banquet for members and their families.

VICA Practices Work Ethics

VICA is a club that fosters a basic appreciation of leadership skills and work ethics.

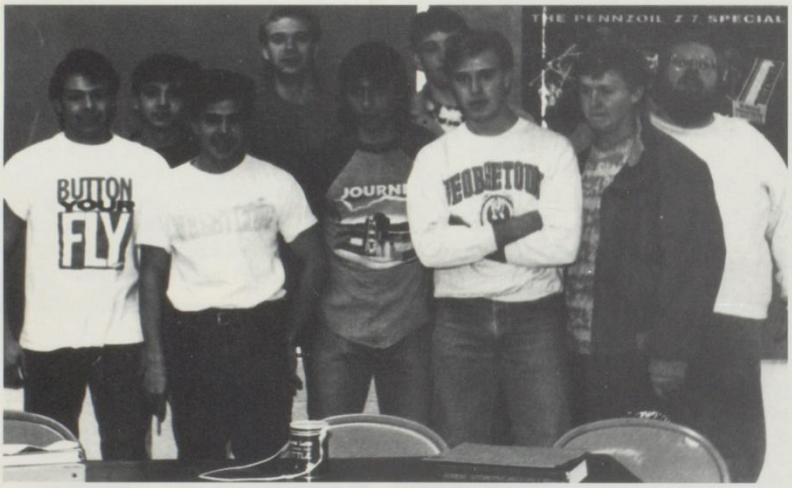

The VICA leaders were PresidentJacob Torres, Vice President Pat Latimer, and Secretary-Treasurer Mike Brunkhardt.

VICA attended a Fall Leadership Conference, a Spring Leadership Conference, and they atteneded a Spring Skills and Car Show. VICA worked on cars in Autobody I and II classes and gives them away for various donations.

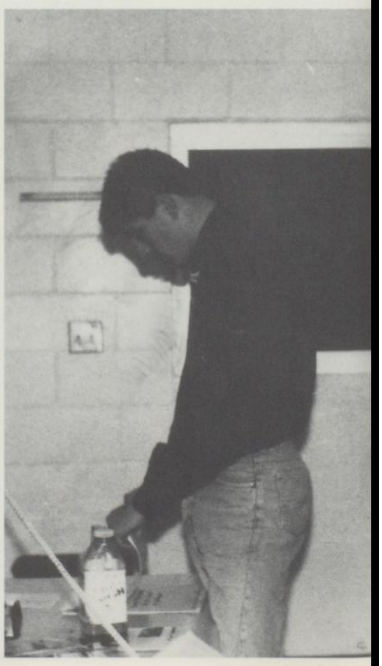

VICA members are rewarded for their hard work with pizza parties or barbeques; plus, they go to car shows and participate incareer days. Some years, VICA sponsors a car bash during the homecoming football game.

Student Council officers for 1992-93 were Mindy Friehauf, secretary; Melissa Weisser, treasurer; Carol Holmes, vice-president; and Bonnie Guthrie, president.

Once again this year the Student Council went to the Camp Cheele League retreat. All the schools from the league attended. The members spent the night in rustic cabins, attended general meetings in the lodge, and shared ideas with other schools. They also watched movies and listened to speakers and seminars dealing with leadership. Said council sponsor Mr. Greg Krob, "The camp is a good place to meet students from other league schools on a non-competitive level."

Student Council has sponsored a number of events this year including the Homecoming activities and dance, the Snowball dance, and Christmas tree disposal for the community.

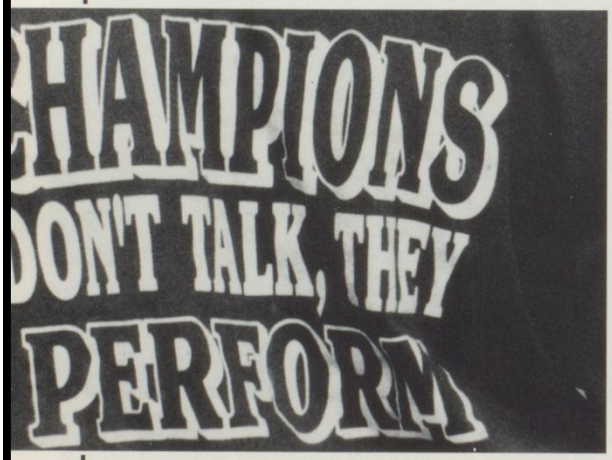

Erin Bradshaw was elected representative to the State Student Council for all Northeastern Colorado schools (all classifications). She represented Northeastern Colorado at State Student Council Summer Workshops, and led a regional workshop at Fort Lupton High School in February.

Meeting Destinations...

It's What It's all About:

SPORTS

As each althlete enters the gym or steps onto the field, he is set to an ultimate test: a test of dedication, commitment and endurance. Yet, each athlete at one time or another will feel he or she has reached the limit only to find each is encouaged and pushed onto greater heights by coaches, teammates and fans all working for the unknown destination that lies ahead.

Brush High School athletes enter other schools with pride. They also earn the respect of their competitors for their class and sportsmanship as they carry on the reputation of previous successfully-reached destinations.

THE CHEERLEADERS SPREAD their spirit throughout the school year at many sporting events.

Third Time's a Charm for 3A

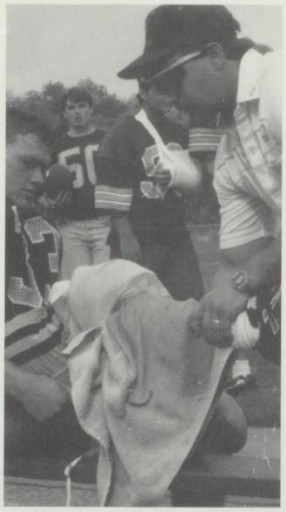

CHAMPS

The season was one to be remembered. From the beginning the team was focused. They knew what it was like to play in a state championship game; some of them, twice. But this year they wanted to win one. They suffered only one loss, to heated cross-county rival Fort Morgan. But this seemed to only motivate the Diggers, not hamper them, as they dominated teams throughout the season.

So once again, following the tradition of Brush football, the Diggers found themselves in the 3A State Championship game. Their opponent Burlington was a defensive powerhouse, undefeated and hungry for the win. But as teams all season had learned, this didn't happen very often when they faced the Diggers.

The final game was a total team effort, with both teams struggling to get momentum in the bitter cold. Eventually, the Diggers gained it, 19-7, thanks to some strong defensive stands and an offense that proved it could win. "This is the best team I've been with. Everyone on the team contributed, and everyone earned our reward, the state championship," commented Junior Gene Roberts.

The team finished the season with thirteen All-Conference players. All-State players included Jason Mills, Troy Ocanas, Alan Halley, Dan Welschmeyer, and Ben Brunner. Dan Kendrick and Gene Roberts received honorable mention. Of the choices, Coach Larry Mills remarked, "I knew some players would be left off (first team selections). "If anyone deserved it, Danny Kendrick did." Kendrick led the 3A Champs in tackles.

VOLLEYBALL TEAM ADVANCES TO STATE

The Lady Diggers had a season of frustration, exhilaration, and utter excitement.

Peaking at the right time, they continured onto the state tournament, advancing out of districts and regionals, both as number two seed behind Platte Valley.

Amanda Becker and Carol Holmes both took home the Most Valuable Player award. Both were named All-Confererence in the league.

Amanda was also selected for All-State by the Rocky Mountain News and received All-State Honorable Mention by The Denver Post.

Carol also receiveed an All-State Honorable Mention by the Rocky Mountain News.

Carol Holmes said this about her last year as a Lady Digger, "We startecd off strong but along the way we got sidetracked. When we got back on track, we really came on strong. We were a shock to all of the teams."

The volleyball season was a perfect example of a Destination Unknown.

GOLF, CROSS COUNTRY

Two new additions to Brush High School sports this year were the golf team and Kendra Kirsch running in CrossCountry. George Mussell coached the fourteen members to a very respectable first season.Norman Schnieder had the best finish of the golfers, only two strokes away from the state tournament. Kendra Kirsch finished sixth at the cross country regionals and twenty-third at the state competition.

TEAM THIRD AT STATE; TROY OCANAS

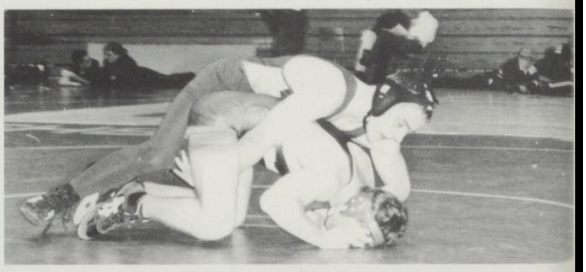

CHAMPION

Wrestling is a challenging sport. It requires stamina and discipline. The Diggers displayed both as they worked through the regular season matches to become regional champions and conference co-champions. On their way to the state tournament they posted some impressive numbers, winning four out of six tournaments. They did so with strong coaching and a lot of hard work.

"Wrestling is a physical sport; it takes a lot of dedication," commented State Champion Troy Ocanas. The State Tournament produced some other good results for the highly-rated Diggers. Senior Dan Welschmeyer took second Dan Kendrick took third, Justin Curtis took fifth, and Shane Brandon took sixth.

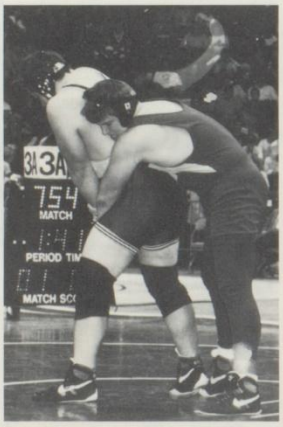

With these results the team finished third overall to Platte Valley (first) and Roosevelt (second). The Diggers outdid both teams on the regional mats, but injury and some surprise losses early in the state tournament hurt the BHS squad at state.

BOYS' BASKETBALL ADVANCES TO REGIONALS

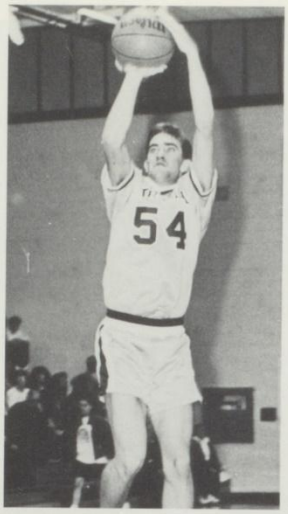

The Diggers had one of the best seasons in a long time. The season went very well even though they had a lot of last minute deciders.

Again they had a late start because of the football season. They successfully became co-champions of the league. The Diggers continued as far as regionals, but the team was overwhelmingly defeated by the eventual state champion, Colorado Springs Christian.

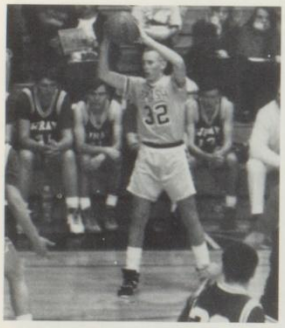

The overall standing was 13 wins and 8 loses. Mr. Needens commented that it was a very successful season. The highlight of the year was the crushing of Platte Valley on their own court.

A lot of people didn't expect the team to make it as far as they did. It had been quite a few years since the team played in the regional game.

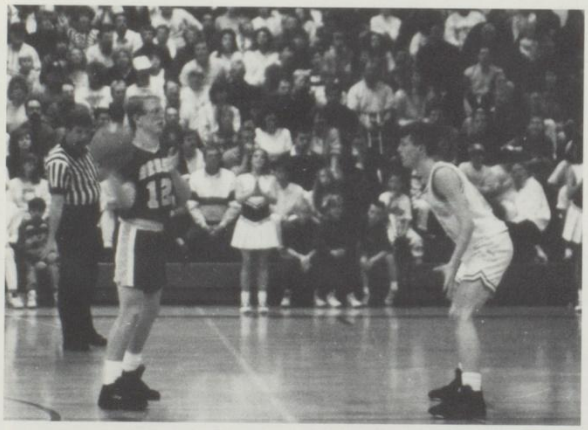

Mr. Needens also commented that he owed credit to the fans, parents, and the senior players.

Lady Diggers Break Six School RECORDS

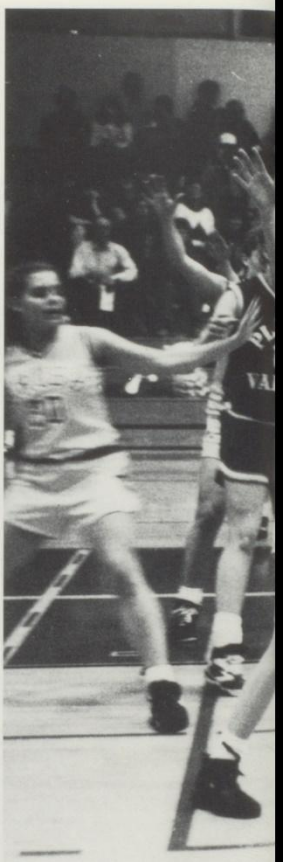

Six of the once-standing team and individual school records were broken during the season: the team freethrow percentage (63 percent); the team high score (75 points); the three pt. percentage of 45 percent,set by Kim Brandon; the career free-throw percentage of 67 percent, set by Carol Holmes, and the field goal percentage of 45 and the freethrow percentage of 71, both set by Leighanna Grupp.

Coach KimKraich said, "By far this was the best overall attitude and work ethic. It helps when you have a strong J.V. team, because it gives an extra advantage over other teams."

The '93 team tied for second in the league with Yuma and Wray. They continued on to districts in Ft. Morgan. "Finishing second in the league was exciting," said Coach Kraich.

Theresa Lebsock and Carol Holmes, seniors on the team, felt that they worked better as a team. Carol said, "This was the best team out of all the years I've played. I was really glad the team was so sucessful."

The Lady Diggers lost to Eaton in district play, ending thier season 8-12. Coach Kraich said she gave a lot of credit to the Seniors for establishing strong leadership." She also said she enjoyed working with all the girls and watching them improve daily. She's looking for an even better season next year.

WHERE ARE WE GOING?

A DESTINATION OF

PEOPLE

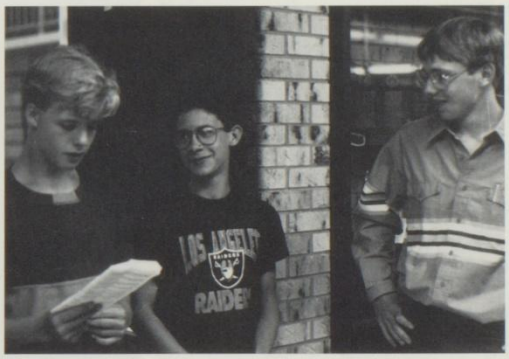

What would be the best way to initiate the new freshmen?

What would the funniest moment be on the senior ski trip?

Which new teachers would students choose to pick on?

Each year, as Brush High School begins, traditions continue; however, the way they are carried out depends on the people who were there. The people who are there will remember them for a lifetime.

From the past to the present, the makeup of the BHS population changed considerably. The average class size changed from 85 to about 95 students. Also, the trends changed from what people wore to what they listened to.

SENIOR STEVE HERNANDEZ watches while he makes freshmen Jed Jefferson and B.J. Meza sing the school loyalty song.

SHOWING OFF SOME backstage theatrics during the fall play are Todd Schreiner and Mike Acosta.

High School Days Linger In

Enjoyable Senior Memories

For the seniors, it was time to take a step out into the world. Even though leaving high school behind is a scary thought, thousands of memories will stay in the seniors' minds. Seniors easily recalled their most memorable moments. For some seniors it seemed as if they were freshmen just yesterday, as most vividly remembered initiation.

"My social life throughout my high school years will always be memorable...especially going out with my friends and doing things we weren't supposed to. And I will definitely always remember "Blue Kool-aide!" recalled Tami Hurd.

"I will always remember the good times like skipping down the halls, and being crazy, putting a little life into things," Cresta Brown was proud to say.

For most seniors, the football championship will always be remembered. But all the little things that happened are also to be remembered. Many will walk away with everlasting wonderful personal memories, and when recalling high school, will have a smile on their faces.

Making Future Plans For

College, Military, Etc...

For some who are getting ready to graduate, the senior year is very nerve-racking. Some already know what they will be doing after high school; some are still undecided. Whether or not it is college or the military, or maybe just going to work, it still is pretty scary thinking about being out in the real world all alone.

"I want to try and get into the Marines, but if I can't I probably will just work," said Senior Wayne Mattorano.

Robert Mesch replied, "I think I am going to go to the Army, and then I'll go to college afterwards."

Students who are still trying to decide what to do are not alone. Trying to fill out applications for colleges or signing one's life away to "Uncle Sam" can be a pretty big decision.

If one was not being hounded by the military, he or she was being swamped with college or scholarship information.

ROBERT MESCH SIGNS IN before going into the voting booths for the first time in the November election.

As '92 Elections Dominate Fall News Media...

Seniors Exercise Their Rights

The fall of '92 was an intense election time. All one seemed to see on televsion was the presidential commercials, debates and election hype.

Even though many wanted to scream because they thought they'd heard enough, they couldn't get away from it all.

The new election year was very important to most, yet some of the seniors who had a chance to vote didn't think it was as big a deal as people made it seem to be. Others appreciated the opportunity and commented on their experiences.

Amy Johnson said, " It was overwhelming with all the levers!"

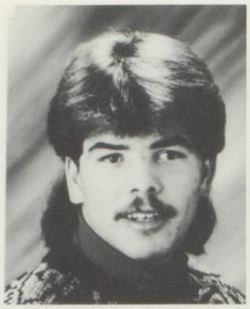

Andy Grandy commented, "I felt that my vote helped."

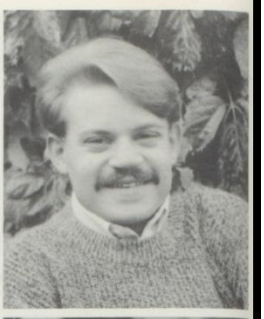

Finally, Amy Ketzner remarked, "It was actually nice to vote, not just have an opinion."

In preparation for the big November day, senior American Government classes studied the election process and seniors had the opportunity to hear county commissioner candidates express their ideas in a school forum.

STRATEGIC PLANNING GOAL OF '93 YEAR

Seeing a need for positive reform, the BHS School District, including administrators, faculty, business people, parents and sudents spent much of the scool year planning strategies for the future.

Their mission statement was "A community partnership uniting through education to empower individuals to meet their future." Eleven commettees worked on such topics as th e school facility, academic and techology improvement plans.

They recommended for the students to challenge themselves and leave school having met those challenges. It is hoped that each student will have and IEP (Individual Education Plan).

This was the first time such a plan had ever been done in the distrct. In fact, there have only been seven or eight such programs in the state.

JUNIORS' DESTINATION

Going to school then having to go to work after school can be really hard to do. Students who work sometimes don't get to do the things their friends enjoy doing, such as going to the dances, or sports activites. So why hassle all of this?

Jason Bowe replied, "It's money for a car." Kevin George said hehad the same reason.

Michelle Padilla said her work doesn't usually interfere with her school activites. She replied, "You don't have as much extra time,but you have extra money.

However, Brandi Alcala commented,"I don't usually get to games that I want to."

Any way students look at it there are advantages and disadvantages to working during high school. For some though time (in a job) is money.

JASON BOWE saves money for a car as he works diligently at his after school job at Brush Market.

Juniors Enjoy Spare Time!

What do juniors do in their spare time? Here are what some of the juniors say they do in their spare time:

Ace Davis: "Mostly Just bum around."

Amanda Lackey: " I mostly just spend time working, or with my boyfriend."

Joel Hergenreter: "Watch T.V., go to B.H.S. games. But most of the time be a bum."

Katisha Klien: "I either work, go to (Fort) Morgan and mess around, or talk on the phone."

Mac Deal: "I usually work, play, sleep, frolic, and go rock climbing in the summer time."

Leighanna Grupp: "Go to basketball practice, do my homework, and go out with my friends."

Juniors Justin Hefner and Joe Machuca work on a car in auto machanics while Senior Aaron Dardanes look on. With many juniors buying their first cars, much spare time is used in maintaining them.

Outside Experiences.....

Many people look for outside experiences from school just for the variety, but some people take on Ag and 4-H projects for later career choices. Lisa Kendrick commented that "I have a better social life beeause of Ag and 4-H.

John Hastings said, "I meet more friends that way."

Another sophomore, Justin Curtis said, "I have a lot more fun in Ag." Paul Chard commented, "We get out of school a lot more!"

Sophomores enjoy swimming for summer fun

Summer fun is no problem for several members of the sophomore class and other students as well. Several students enjoy their vacation by participating on the swim team which competes throughout the summer. The team has around seventy members who compete in about ten meets on the average. The Brush swim team took second place in Northern Colorado districts last year. The sophomore members competing included John Hastings, Ronda Coad and Charity Thompson. Charity Thompson placed in the breaststroke at the 1992 Summer club Championship and Ronda Coad was nominated as Colorado Summer Club Swimmer of the Year. This team is just one of many fun ways to spend an otherwise dull summer.

FRESHMAN CHRIS FOX, Rachel Jungwirth, Sonia Mohrlang, Ronda Coad, and Charity Thompson wave to their coaches at the state competition.

Parents as Educators.....

Entering into the high school scene can be a whole new experience. You meet new people, learn different things. You wonder, "What will happen to me ? How will I change?" Some of the freshmen were "fortunate" enough to have a parent in the school system as a teacher or even a principal.

Jean Jordet's mother served as the first semester librarian in the high school. Jean commented, "I like having my mom at the school. It helps when I have problems."

Dan Prascher, son of Dr. Ron Prascher, principal, said,"I wouldn't want to be a principal. There is a lot more stress and problems to handle." He also said, "like any other kind of situation having a parent in the school has it's disadvantages and advantages."

Nick White's mother isn't in the high school, but is a librarian at Central School. "When I went to school there, sometimes she'd do crazy things that would embarass me." He knows that his mother enjoys her job, but wouldn't want to choose it as a career.

Growing up, one sees your parents at work in their professions. From this, one may decide his or her career, whether i'ts the same as one's parent's, or something totally different.

Enduring Upperclass Siblings...

A RIDE TO SCHOOL OR ACTIVITIES is one benefit of upperclass siblings. Carrie Barnett arrives here with Brad, a junior.

Having an older brother or sister in high school is like flying an airplane with a few drops of fuel left. You never know when you're going to crash.

Sure, they may help you with a little homework, but don't get excited, because it is usually black mail. And then there is initiation.

Freshman Carrie Barnett commented, "My older brother made initiation harder, because more high schoolers knew me."

This was said of every freshman with an older brother or sister. But it can also be an advantage. "My brother helps me with problems I may have," said Gregg Roberts.

So, maybe it's better to have an older brother or sister in high school. Maybe. Maybe not. Maybe.....

Advertisers,

Patrons:
It works both ways!

The destination of these businesses are somewhat unknown. Contributing their business ads to our year has helped us all complete our destination: producing the pages and pictures of this yearbook!

But what about the destination of our local businesses?

We must support them as well as they support our school, to make our local economy healthy.

With support of the businesses in this ad section, you have been able to purchase this yearbook at a very small fraction of the real cost.

Preserving Your Memories--

IT'S THEIR DESTINATION

Attempting their first-ever totally desktop-published yearbook was a challenging learning experience for the BHS yearbook staff.

In addition to spending hours on the computers, students on the staff worked hard in other ways. They sold advertising to help fund the yearbook, photographed each special event, and wrote stories in the yearbook and school newspaper to reflect their impact on the students and the year.

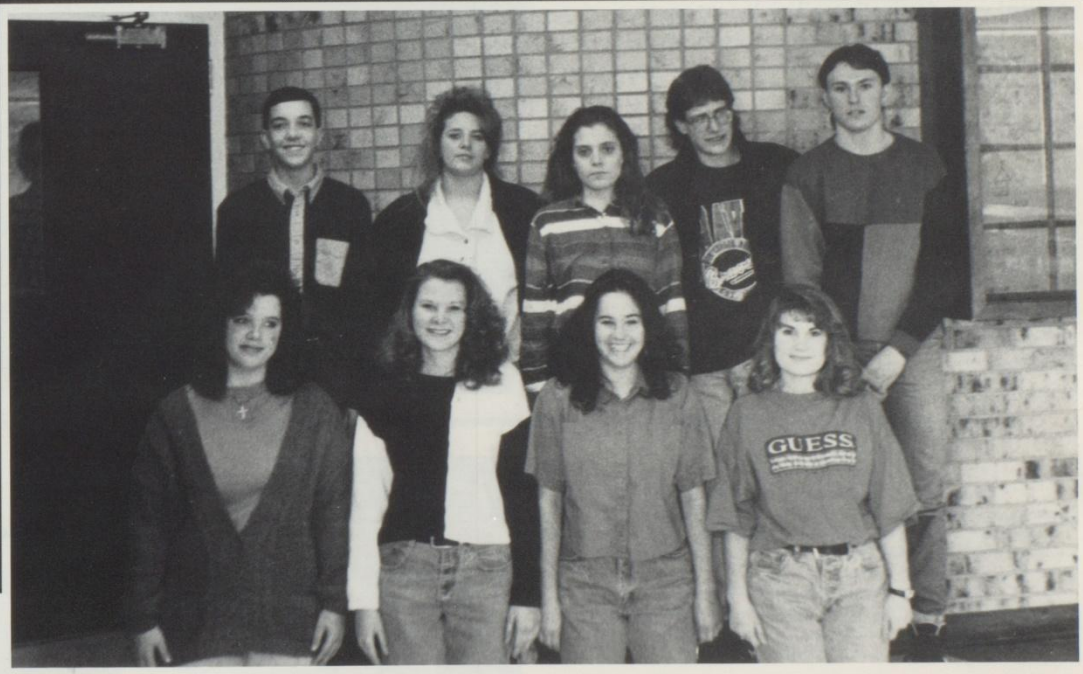

Yearbook editors Leighanna Grupp and Missy Vigil explored many graphic and layout ideas to develop a fresh, new look for Sagebrush '93. Staff members interviewed students and faculty for objective inside views on everything from daily school life to the very fads and happenings that made the year stand out from many others.

Those outside the staff seldom realize the hours of work a yearbook represents, but they enjoy it for many years. And, if it brings a smile, a laugh or even a tear to the reader, the staff of '93 will have accomplished its main goal: preserving memories.

PHOTOGRAPHERS JAIME BOSTROM and Deanna Woods demonstrate some versatility as they photograph the homecoming tug-of-war from two vantage points.

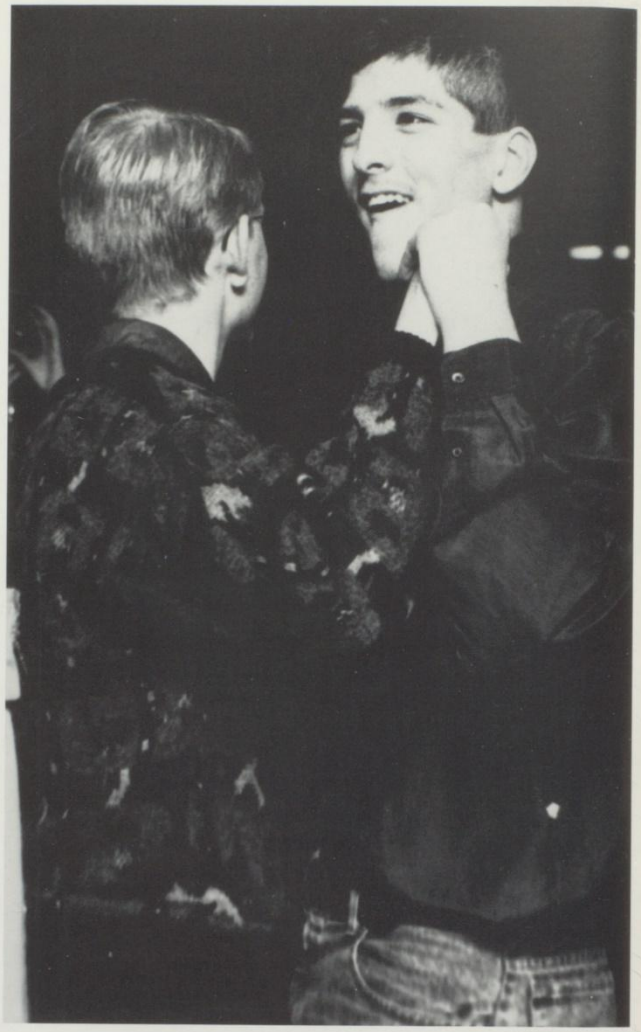

DESTINATION-KNOWN!

Everybody starts the year with their goals in mind. Some acheive them and some do not. It takes some merely a couple of years, while others it may take a lifetime. Getting through high school is a goal that is obtained by every senior that graduates. This alone is a great accomplishment. To overcome the challenges of freshmen initiation and the stress of gaining enough credits to graduate deserves a diploma.

Some students know their own personal goals before they graduate and some even before they reach their senior year in high school, while others just want to go home and fix themselves a sandwich.

We all end up on the same road, life. Some may take short-cuts and end up worse off than people who take a better way and reach their destination, a happier, more sucessful and very satisfied person.

Keep reaching for your goals and working toward your destination. We all come across struggles in life and within ourselves; but remember, it takes a problem to come up with a solution.

'93 Colophon

Sagebrush '93 was produced by the BHS journalism staff with technical assistance from Adviser Mrs. Amy Ely and Walsworth Company Representative Mr. Greg Stimack. Photographers were Deanna Woods, Jaime Bostrom, and Shawn Cook. Professional group pictures furnished by Zemi Photography and Lasting Images.

The four-color cover was constructed with a quarter bound of corderoy fabric in teal. The binding is Smyth Sewn with enamel gloss number 105 paper. Times, Bodoni and Palatino typefaces were used.

Two-hundred and thirty-five copies were sold.
