Mr. Wayne Brower, Mr. Thomas Lally, and the School Board comprised the administration. The main functions of the administration was to establish the policy and to provide smooth operations for the school.

Assuming the position of superintendent, Wayne Brower set up office in the new Chamber of Commerce Building. Mr. Brower moved to Brush from Nebraska to take over his office in the school system for his first year.

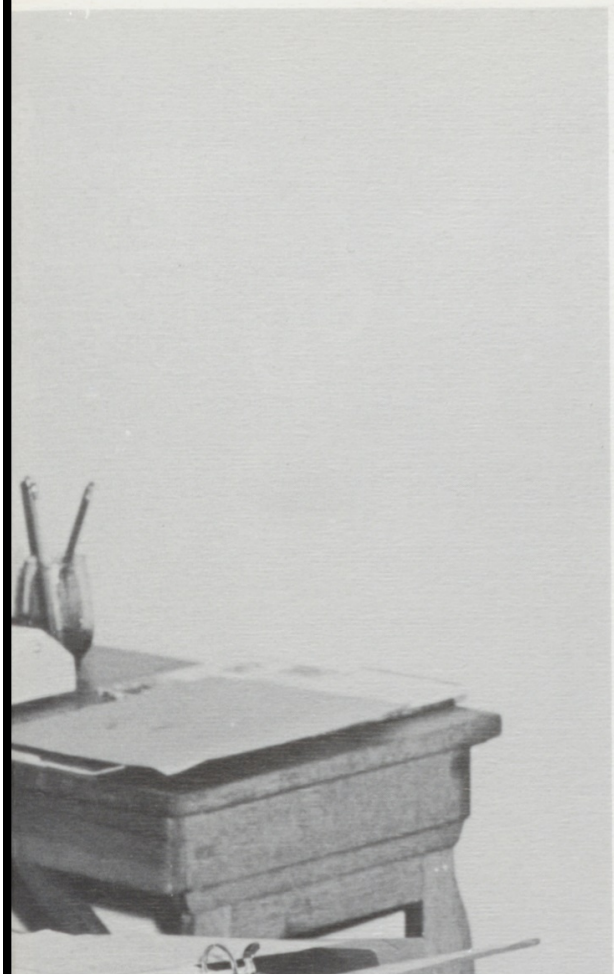

On May 9th Don Mitchell, George White, John Hallahan, and Merton Jefferies were re-elected to the seven member board. Other members were Dean Christensen, John Lindell, and Robert Wagers.

Mr. Thomas Lally, principal, moved to Brush in the school year of 51-52 from La Veta, Colorado. He has retained his position for the past 13 years.

ADMINISTRATION

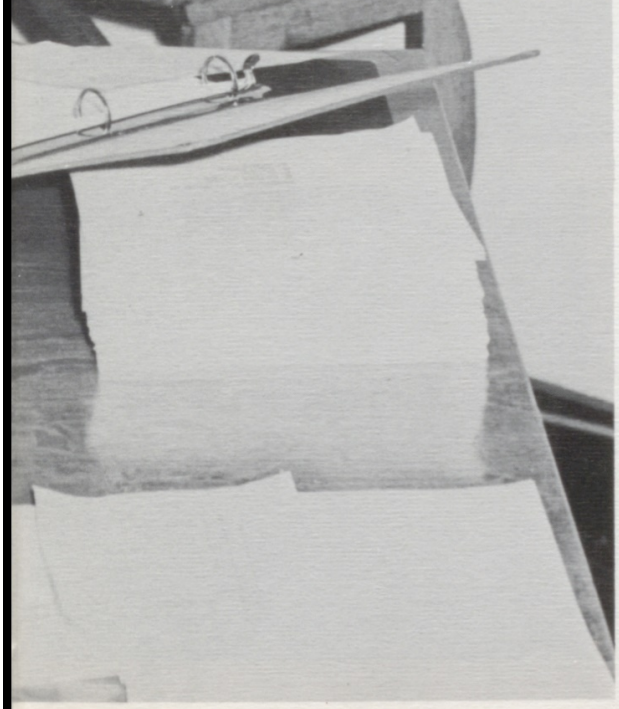

Dear Students,

Your educational life begins at birth and ends with death. In between these extremities there are certain events which mark the phases of your learning: your pre-school tutoring under your mother's guidance ends with entrance into kindergarten; grade school days close when you become a high school freshman; required schooling ends with graduation from high school; specialization and higher education begins with trade school, job training, or college.

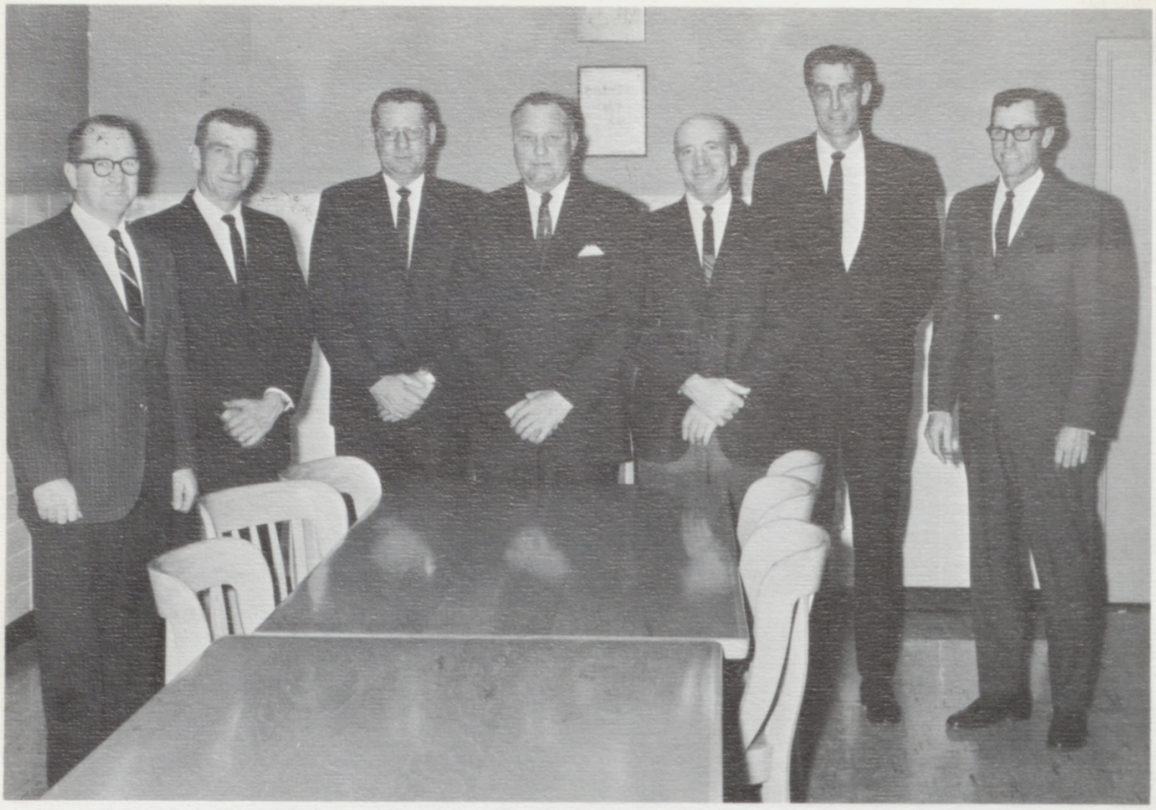

The Sagebrush for 1966-67 marks another milestone in your education, and another year completed.

Board Plans For New School

RE-2 School District has undergone many changes with the leadership of a new superintendent, Wayne Brower. Mr. Brower, who came from Nebraska, has moved to new administration offices downtown in the Chamber of Commerce Building.

Four of the seven-member board were up for election this year. Don Mitchell, George White, John Hallahan and Merton Jefferies were re-elected on May 9th.

Planning a new jr.-sr. high school and studying a K-12 coordinated curriculum were the main projects this past year. An architectural firm was hired to draw up preliminary plans for the buildings, and an option was taken to buy 51 acres as a site.

architectural firm was hired to draw up preliminary plans for the buildings, and an option was taken to buy 51 acres as a site.

The North Central Accreditation Committee visited for a week in April. Their recommendations are expected to be constructive and beneficial. A complete, comprehensive set of policies were compiled and adopted by the board, governing all phases of school activities.

Dear Students,

The greater the change of pace of the world, the more urgent it is for our young people to develop a background in learning to meet these changes. We hope that we are providing the type of education program in Brush High School to meet these needs. The students of this high school have come a long way in preparing themselves to be leaders of tomorrow. Keep up the good work.

BHS Activities

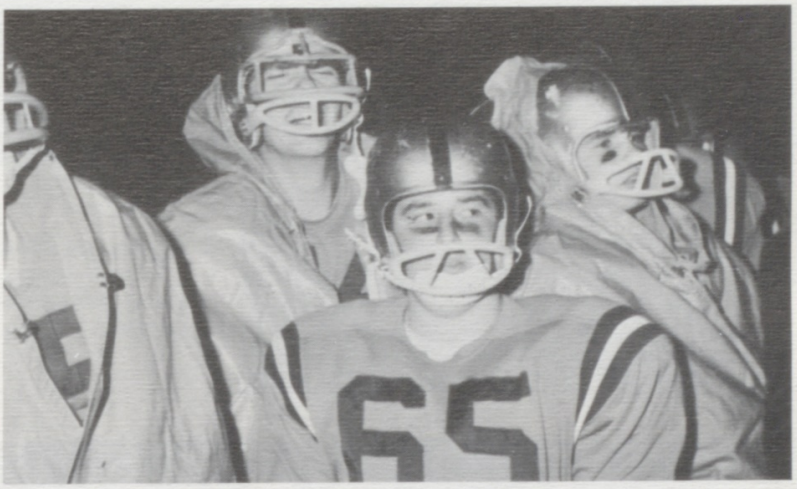

Fall activities were concerned primarily with football and its goals. Weather proved to be a menace during the season as the temperature was often cold. The football team members were able to move during the game, but Pep Club girls covered themselves up with blankets and braved the cold to cheer the team to victory.

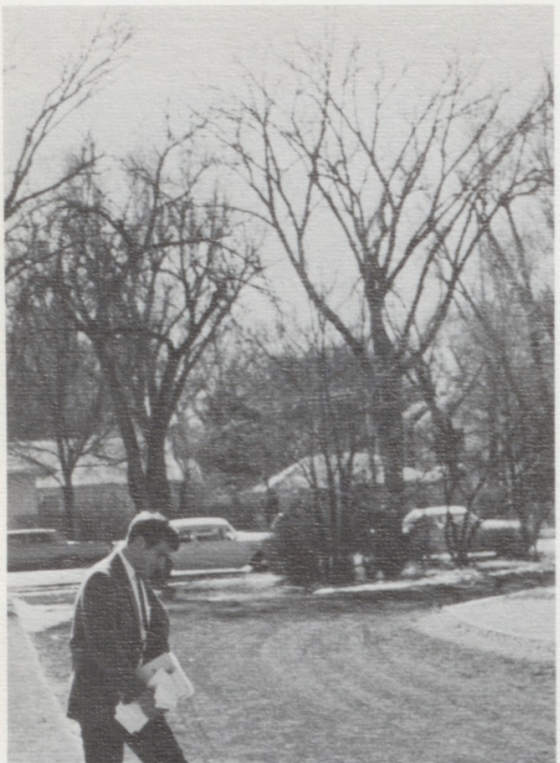

Homecoming highlighted the season falling on October 7. The Diggers played host to the Holyoke Dragons and defeated them. The dance, held after the game, was a reunion for alumni and B. H. S. students. Music was provided by the Justin Martyrs of Greeley. Four candidates for Homecoming, Angelica Hansch, Kathy Swinson, Diane Olson, and Colette Schilling were chosen by the football team. Harold Sharp crowned Diane Olson as reigning queen at the half of the football game.

Games, Plays Add To Winter Season

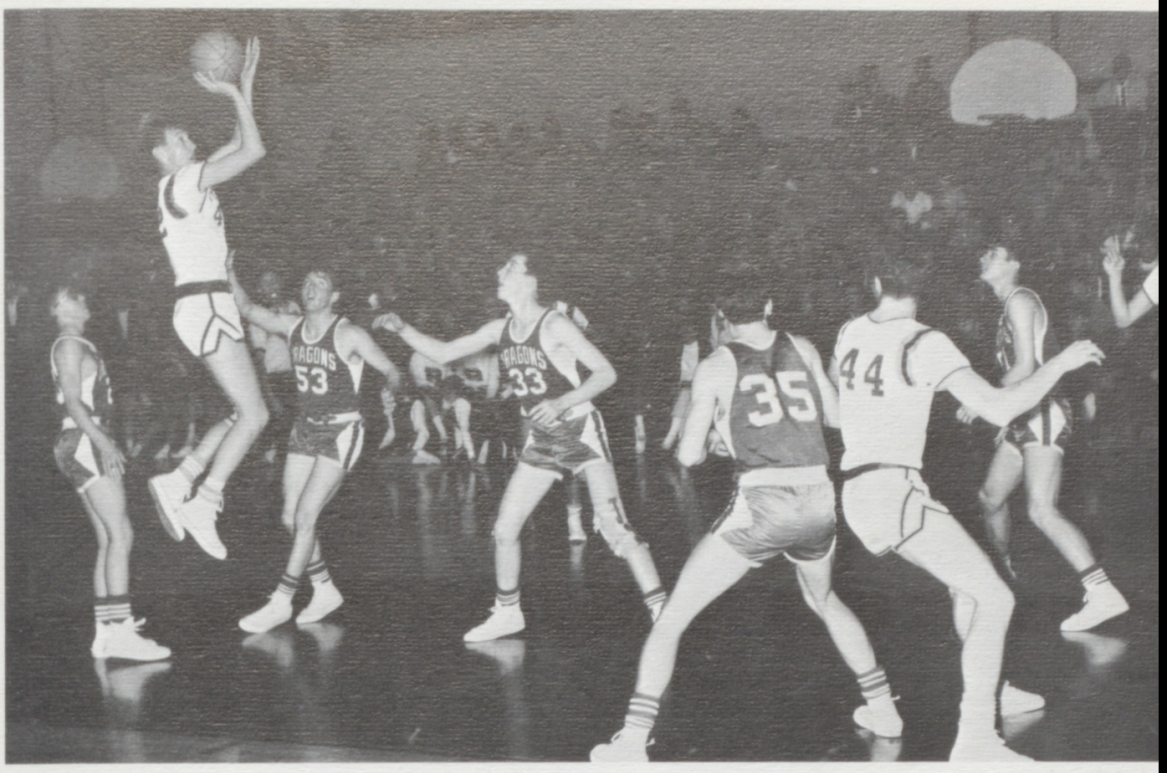

Officially winter begins on December 22, but for those of B. H. S. winter begins when basketball and wrestling are performed. Even though B. H. S. did not go to state basketball, four wrestlers went to State.

Annually the senior class presents a Christmas play. The play was given on December 20th. Christmas also brought to the students' minds the thought of vacation. To celebrate the last day of school before vacation, the four classes participated in skits. Seniors proved their dramatic ability and placed first, followed by sophomores, freshmen, and juniors.

Snow was not abundant so school was never called off because of a blizzard. Whenever it did snow, students would get their hopes up only to be disappointed by the sun reappearing shortly after. The students took advantage of the Florida like winter and enjoyed it.

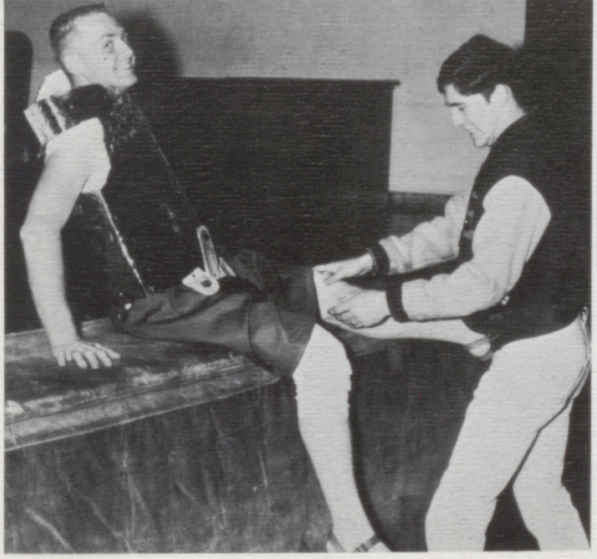

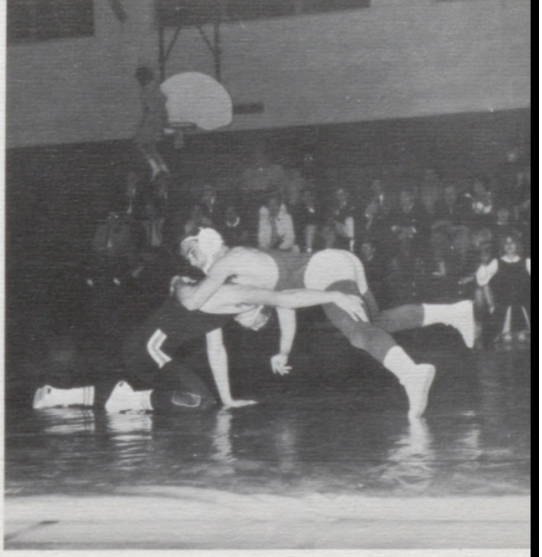

Basketball games had their exciting moments and each game's outcome was unpredictable. Herbie Koehler was honored as Brush's most valuable player. Here Herbie is trying for a shot while his guards try unsuccessfully to stop him. Teammates await the rebound.

Dress rehearsals often become comedy plays as the cast members clown in a semi-celebration of the upcoming performance night. Sometimes costumes require more than one's self to take off or put on. Chuck Vondy received help from Harold Sharp.

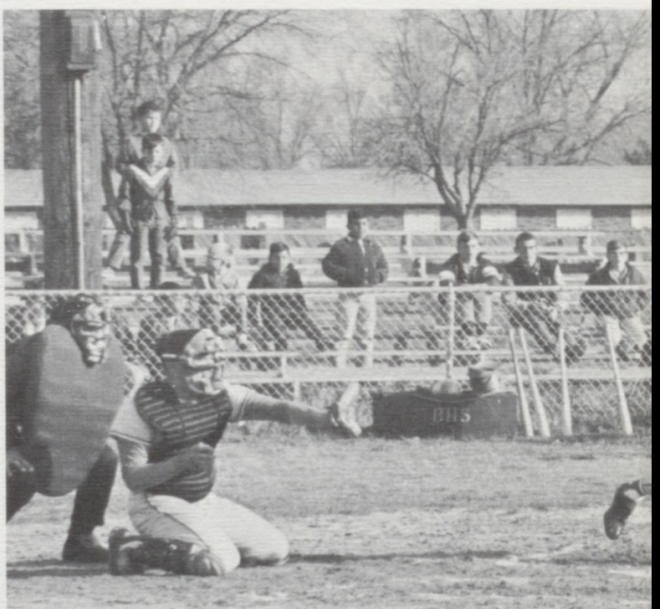

"Spring '67" at B. H. S. was highlighted by the Prom, Digger Day, graduation, track, baseball, and several club banquets. Those clubs holding banquets included B-club, International Relations Club, Thespians, and the Seniors.

The track season was completed with moderate success as the state meet was attended by freshman Ricky Allen and Senior Harold Sharp. The baseball team lost their only conference game to Burlington and ended the season with a record of four wins and seven losses.

Spring Awakens Many Activities

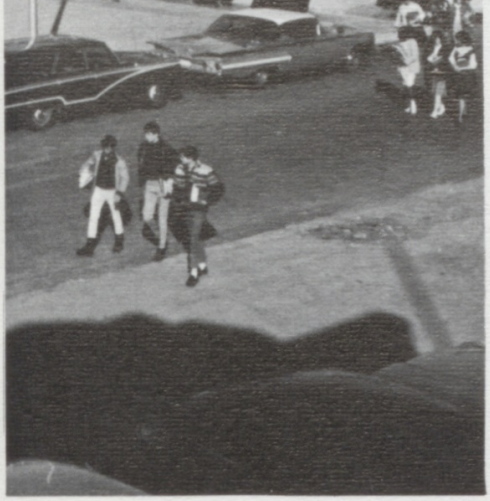

Four hundred twenty-eight teenagers converged on the B. H. S. campus August 28 to begin another year of toil during their high school career. They came--the freshmen tremulously, the sophomores more self-assured than the previous year, the juniors anticipating the Prom finances, and the seniors planning to make this year their best--ready to work hard as well as to put down all the work for times of fun.

For these students, this yearbook will hold many reminders. Memories of triumph, defeat, play and work are contained in the following pages.

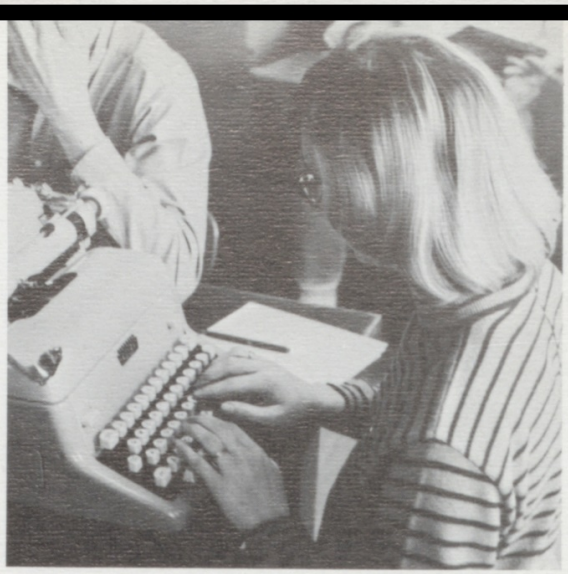

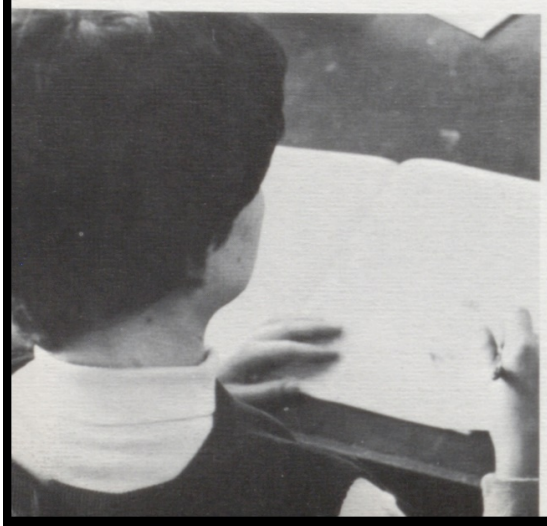

J-Staff Completes Dual Purpose

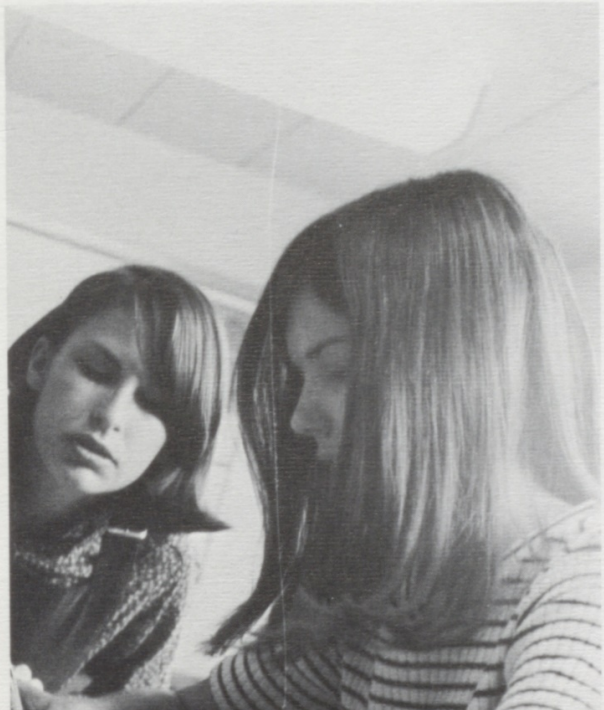

Twenty-two students comprised the Journalism Staff with the dual purpose of issuing a newspaper every three weeks and a yearbook annually. The Journalists ranged from the sophomore to the senior class level sponsored by Mr. Thomas Woolley.

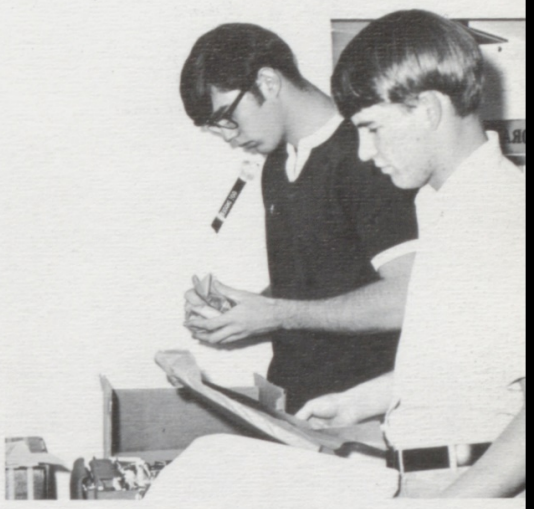

Beat assignments, regular story assignments, ad assignments, and blanket stories were just a few of the tasks performed by the newspaper staff. Also during the year each member of the staff had his duties to laying out certain pages of the yearbook.

Tom Travis, newspaper editor, assisted by co-editor, Leslie Christensen and George Sears assisted by Rick George, yearbook editors worked throughout the year assigning newspaper and yearbook assignments and meeting various deadlines.

Last year the Brush High Journalism Staff was honored when the 1965-66 Sagebrush received a number two position for the state of Colorado in the National High School Yearbook Contest. The Brush yearbook received exceptionally high ratings in the categories of layout and photography.

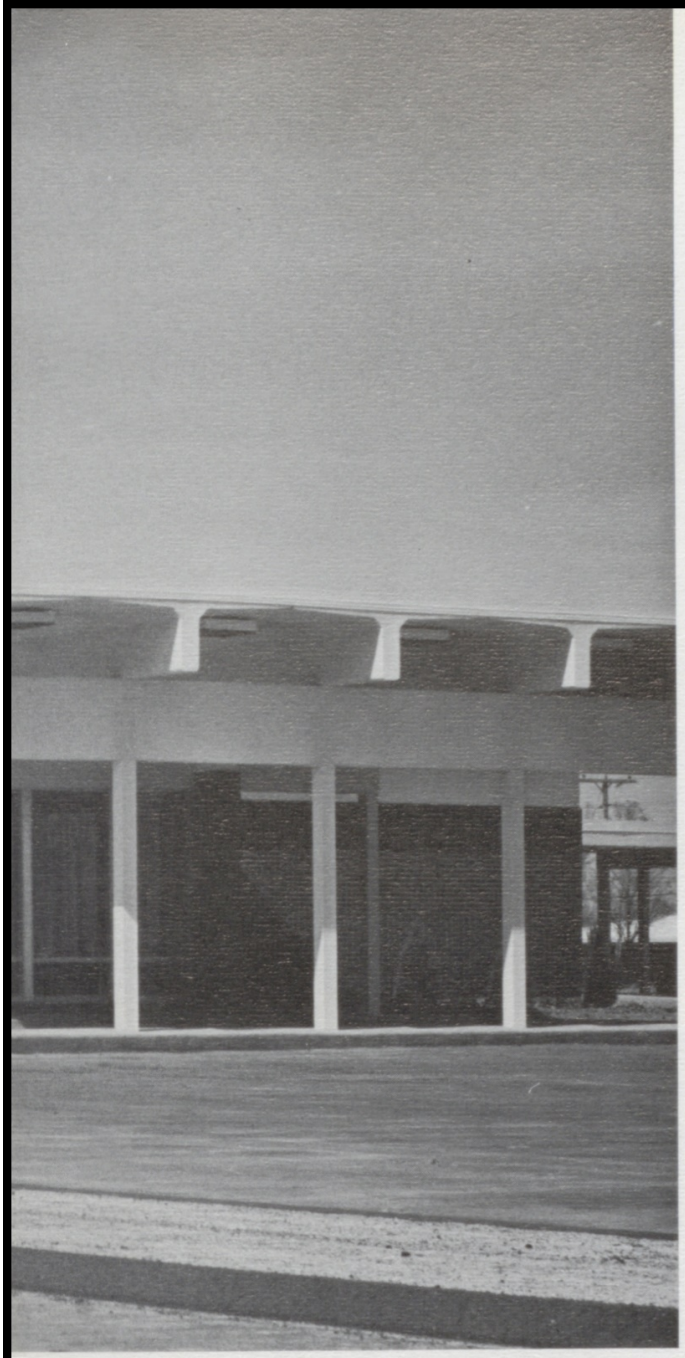

Naturally the academic program for any school is the essence of the school. Supplimented by sports and other extra-curricular activities, the academic program of a school determines the worth of its existence.

Brush High School provides varied degrees of education in a number of fields. Some math, science, and P.E. are required, and all English and social studies are mandatory.

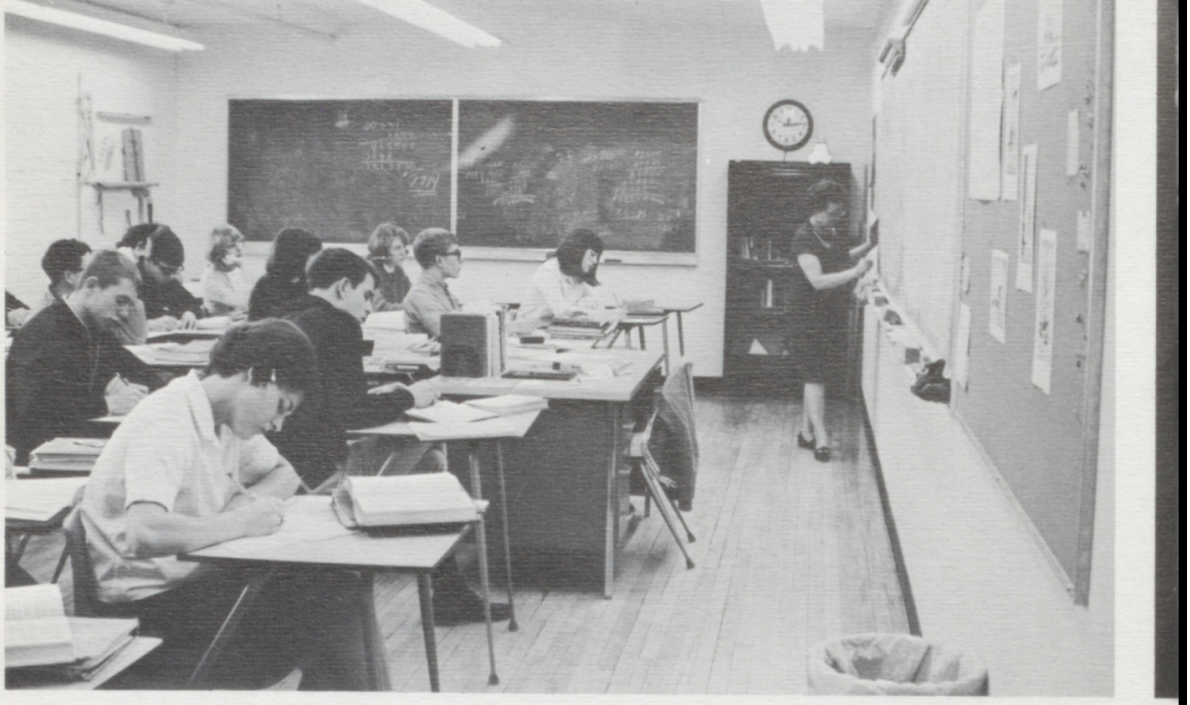

After a top-to-bottom re-evaluation in mid-April, the Northcentral Association dubbed B. H. S. as an extremely good institute with many outstanding qualities, and very few weak points.

With the closing of school doors for the summer of 1967, it could truly be said that another academically productive year had drawn to an end at B. H. S.

ACADEMICS

Math Covers All Phases

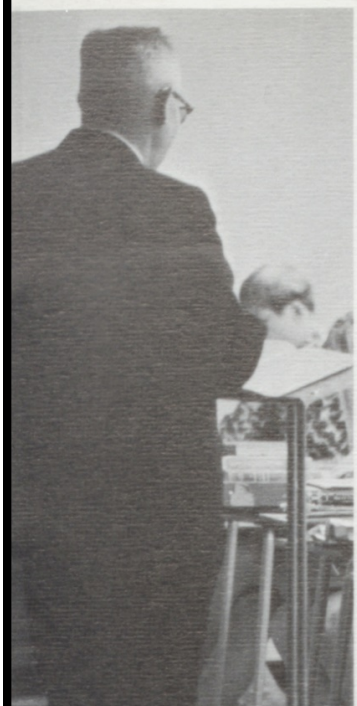

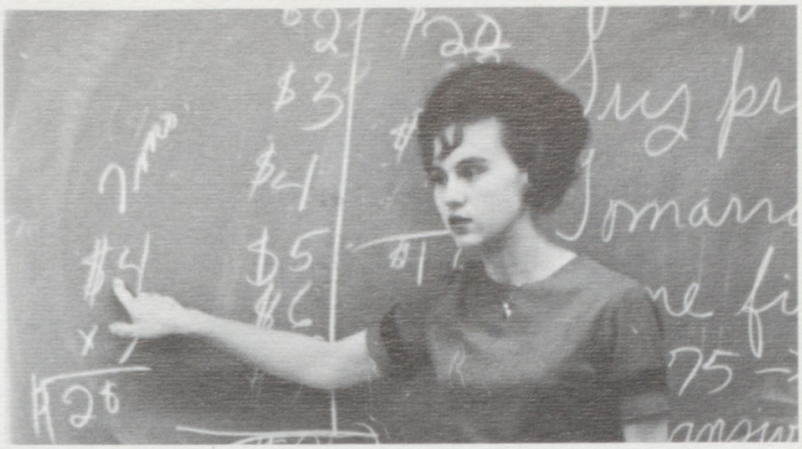

Above, Miss Young explains a problem on the blackboard to one of her Geometry classes. Miss Young taught two geometry classes this year.

At right, various students work in the classroom while others work alone on their homework. There were 15 classes this year in the math department.

Under the direction of three instructors, the 1966-67 math department offered varied levels of study. The instructors include Miss Young, Mrs. Hancock, and Mr. Schweers.

Mrs. Hancock, a new teacher at BHS this year, began by covering the fields of Algebra I and Related Math. Miss Young during the year. In Miss Young's Geometry class the students worked with drawing as they each drew a scale model of a math room to be put in the new school. While studying probability in the advanced senior class, Mr. Schweers showed a few card tricks to show the probability of receiving a certain hand.

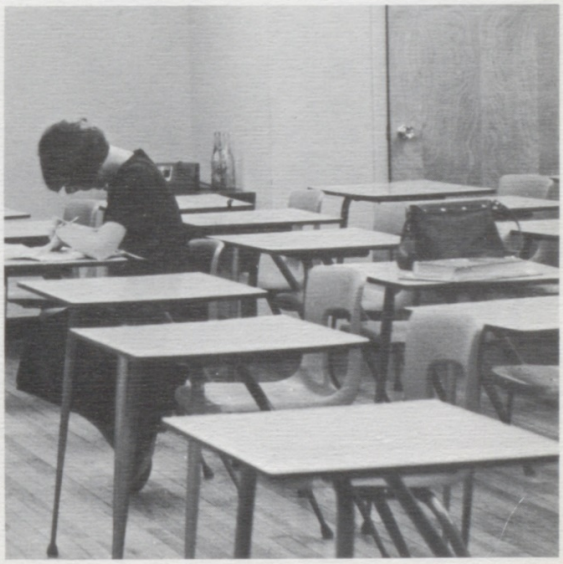

and Mr. Schweers.

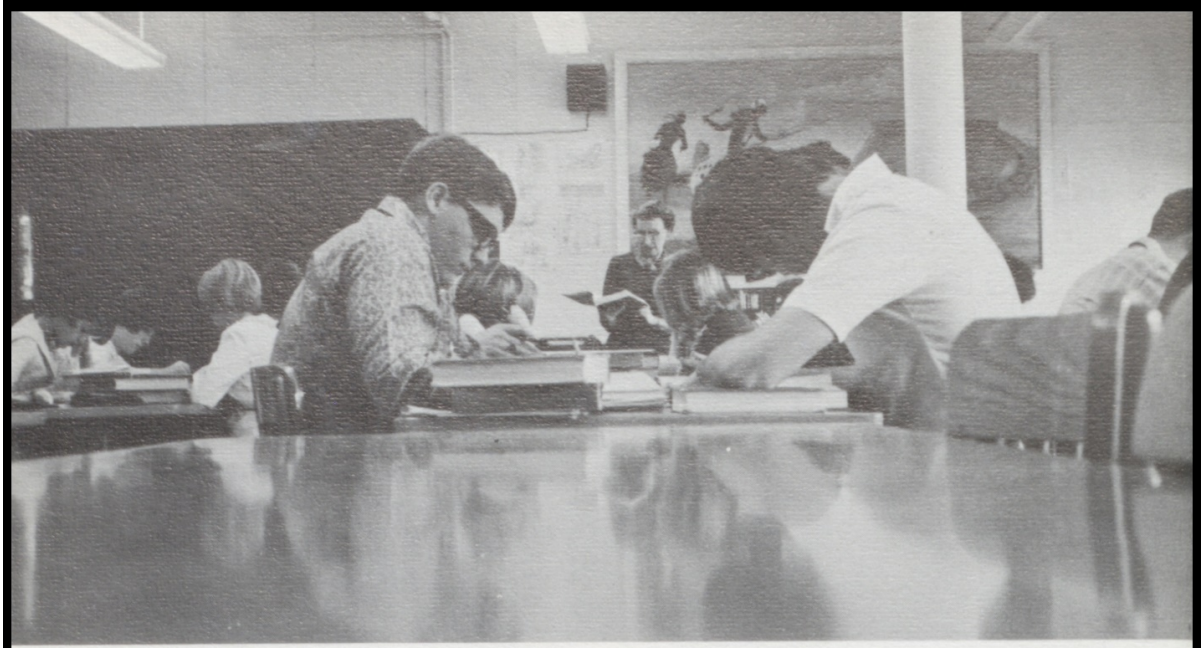

Mrs. Hancock, a new teacher at BHS this year, began by covering the fields of Algebra I and Related Math. Miss Young taught in three fields including Algebra I, Geometry, and Consumer's Math. Covering most of the advanced classes, Mr. Schweers had Geometry, Algebra II, and Fundamentals for Advanced Math.

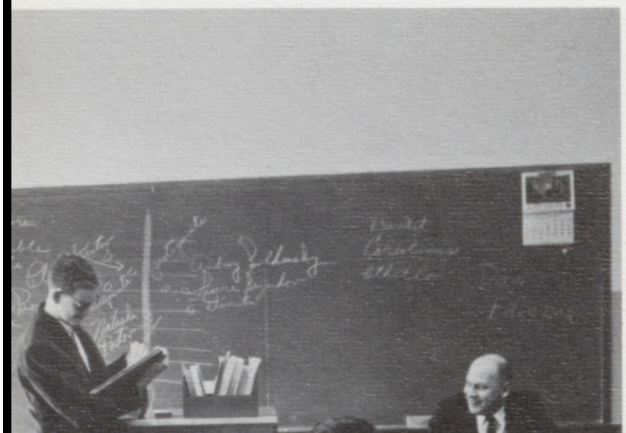

Many interesting topics were covered while studying probability in the advanced senior class, Mr. Schweers showed a few card tricks to show the probability of receiving a certain hand.

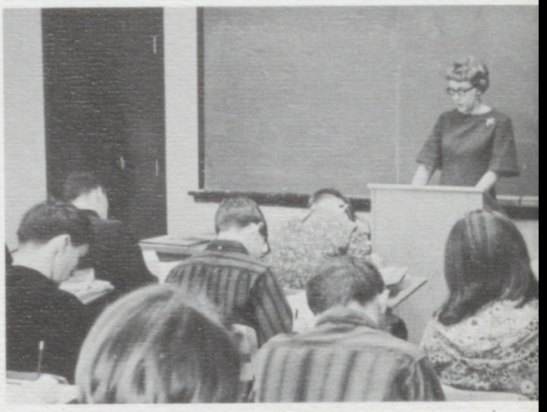

In addition to the regular teachers, a student teacher came to BHS in the spring. His name was Mr. Hansen and his supervisor was Mr. Schweers. After a couple of weeks of observation, Mr. Hansen led the various classes in math.

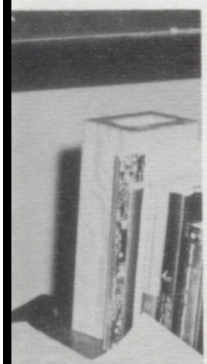

English Classes Read Various Literature

English is a required subject at Brush High School for four years and is taught on regular basis as well as functional levels. Students were assigned vocabulary, literature, composition, and grammar.

Seniors, instructed by Mr. Neill, studied the modern novel and read such books as Heart of Darkness, Lord of the Flies, Animal Farm, and War and Peace. They also did some writing and studied formal vocabulary. Mr. Neill's freshman classes wrote themes, read Oliver Twist, discussed a unit on poetry, and studied and reviewed capitalization.

Miss Walters also taught members of the class of '67. These students made a survey of English literature. When this was accomplished, a theme was written by each student about a phase of literature, some author, or a movement in literature. Some of the books read were Great Expectations, Lord Jim, Keys of the Kingdom, and Return of the Native.

Juniors, under Mr. Schantz, spent the first semester reviewing grammar techniques and working on vocabulary assignments. During the second semester, students worked mainly on the analysis of American literature. Moby Dick, The Last of the Mohicans, My Antonia, and The House of the Seven Gables were some of the stories which were used.

Ivanhoe, The Pearl, Lost Horizon, and Kon-Tiki were some of the books which were required for the sophomores under Mrs. Travis' guidance. Modern drama, speech, and short stories were also studied.

Mrs. Queen's freshman English class went into the topic of mythology. They read Treasure Island and several short stories.

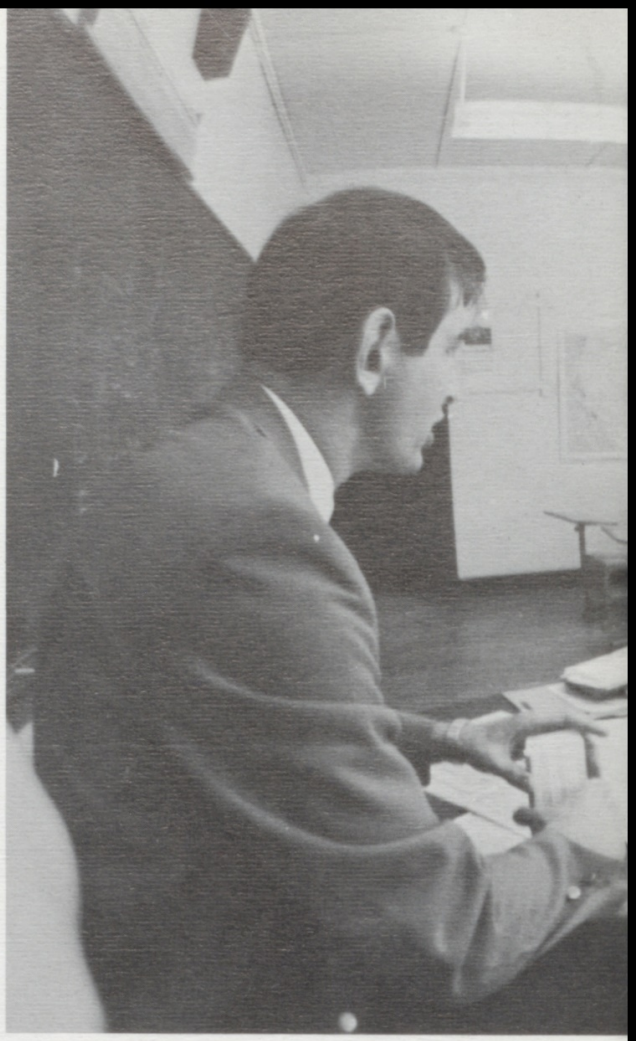

The purpose and aims of all of the English classes are to help the students increase their knowledge of the subject, to help in self expression, to broaden vocabulary uses in the everyday language, and to teach students to appreciate outstanding selections in English literature.

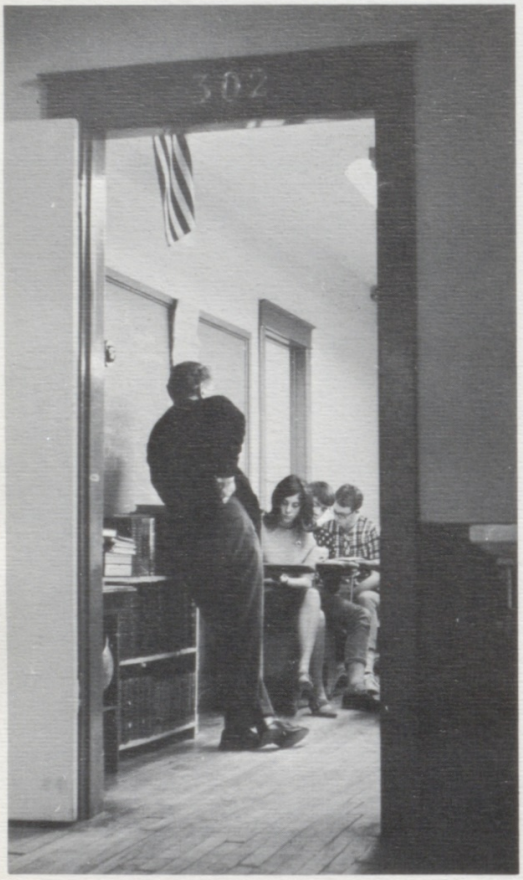

Social Studies Changes With New Instructors

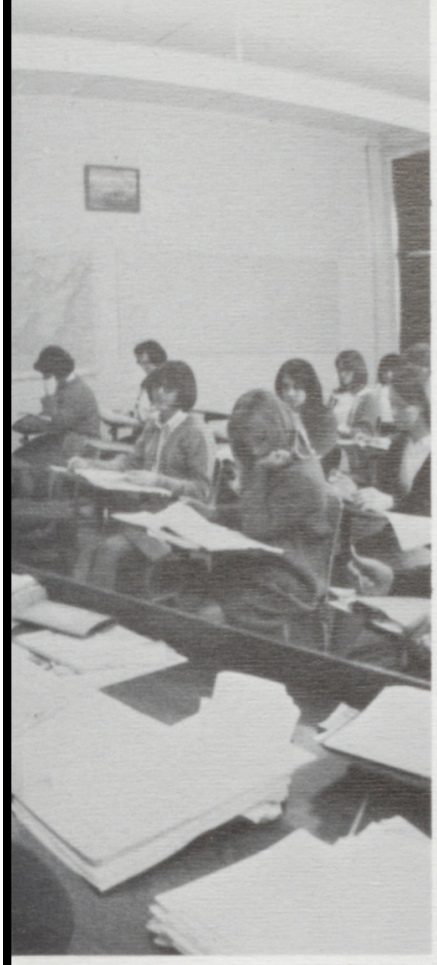

Social Sciences prospered after a year of change and adaptation caused by new teachers and new approaches. Only one of the five teachers in the Social Studies Department has been here for more than five years, that being Mr. Thomas Woolley who used a new technique in instructing world history. It is termed "the post hole" method, since its theory assumes that students learn more by looking deeply into a few events in history instead of looking at history in an over all view. With this method students do many research papers on men and events, but they aren't required to learn many dates or locations since this information should be acquired as...a result of research papers.

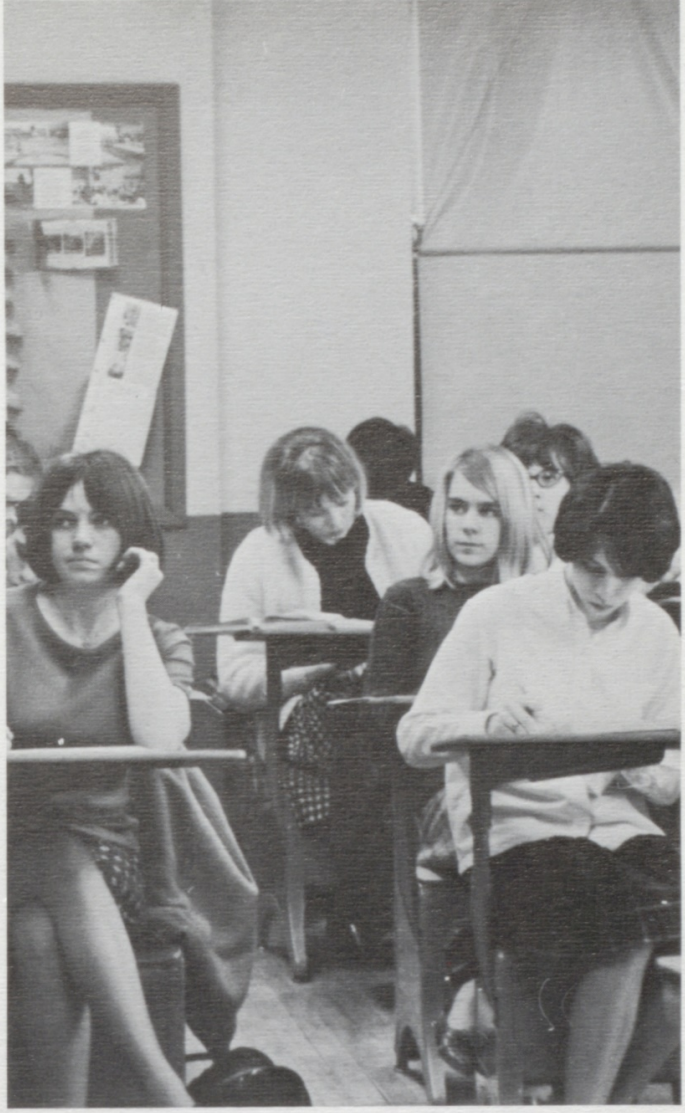

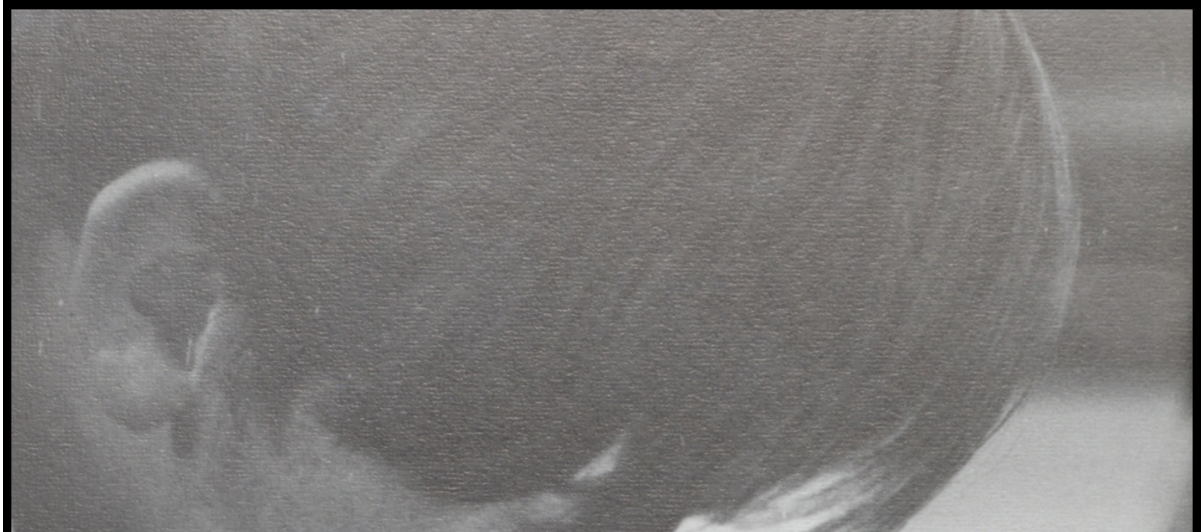

Two teachers were instructing for their first year. One, Mr. Darrell Dilworth taught American Problems from knowledge gained through research. He used college manuals as the source of lectures and used the regular text as an outline only. This multi-source approach required extensive note taking and studying by the students.

Another of the new teachers, Mr. John Shikles, and a veteran of Brush High for four years, Mr. Joe Edson taught Civics to freshman. It was their goal to give our students the background in our government's system that they will need when they are adults.

Science Prepares Students For Scientific Future

Instructing the four classes of sciences which were offered at B.H.S. for the 66-67 school year were, Mr. Burton, teaching general science, Mr. Edson and Mr. Richards biology, while Mr. Mercer taught biology, chemistry, and physics. A student teacher, Mr. Gabriel, aided Mr. Mercer after the second semester began.

Counselors Help With Problems

After nine years of counseling at Brush High, Mrs. Van Dyke was well acquainted with the student's problems, whether they were academic, social, or personal, during the 1966-67 year. Working with her, for his second year, was Mr. Bob Hayes.

Mr. Hayes was head of the orientation program for freshmen, which included explanations of requirements for future years in high school and acquainted them with various classes and clubs. He also counseled the sophomores, telling them of their required subjects they should have had and will need to become juniors and seniors.

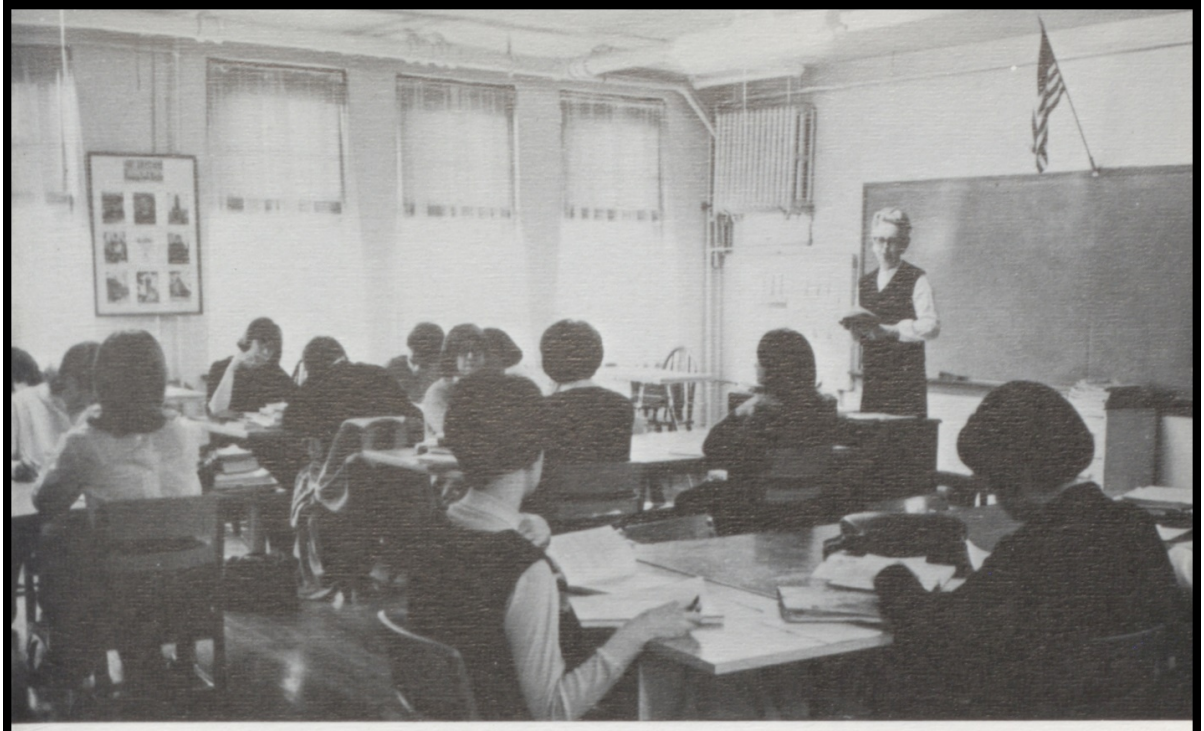

For the junior and senior students Mrs. Van Dyke interpreted many kinds of test scores. Plans for further education and college forms were discussed during group or individual counseling.

Home-Ec Girls Improve Skills

Preparing for home life after high school was the main purpose of the four Home Economics classes available to the girls of Brush High School. Mrs. Martha Staby taught all four classes, which were: Home Ec I, Home Ec II, Home Ec III and IV, and Senior Home Ec.

These different classes included training in sewing, home management, home furnishings, and child care. The Home Ec room was furnished with the equipment necessary for this training.

The students who were studying sewing were taught the value of colors, after which they showed their skills by constructing an article of clothing. Cooking included meal management and food preparation. Mrs. Staby also taught the participants of her classes about caring for children, furnishing their homes with good taste, and what good home management is.

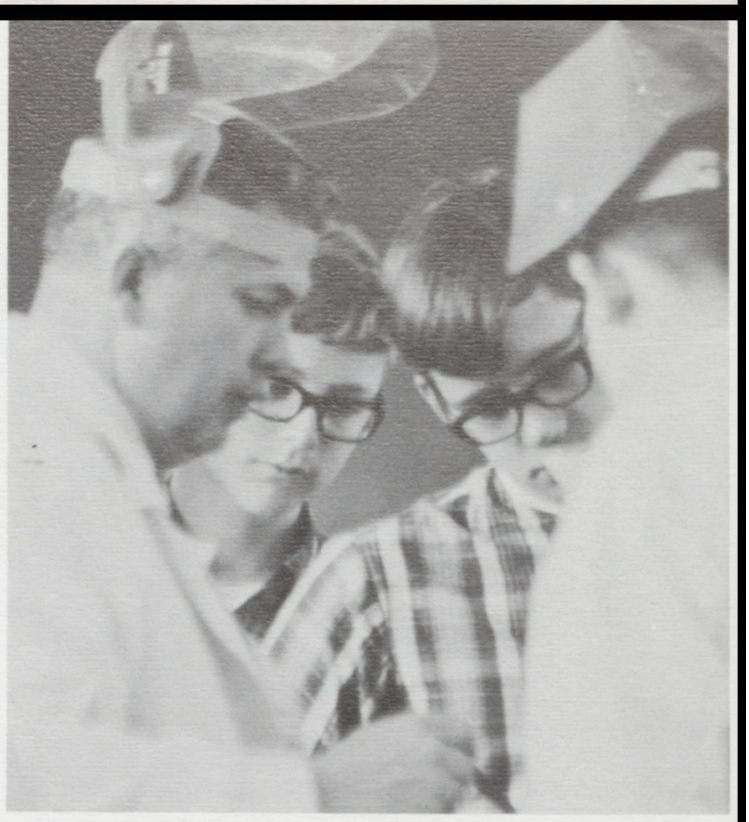

Richards Heads Ag

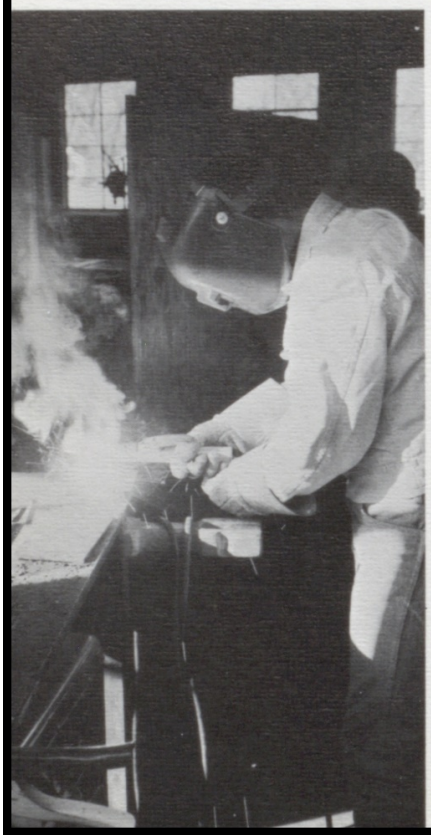

Agriculture classes of the 1966-67 school year were taught by Mr. Mark Richards.

Although no advanced Ag. classes were taught at B.H.S., Ag. I and Ag. II were offered. Both classes covered a wide range of agricultural fields.

Ag. I classes dealt mainly in the livestock area, covering such fields as judging, care, and diseases of livestock.

Boys taking their second year of the course covered, mainly, the crop production area, and studied such subjects as the identity and control of plants and other phases of farm management.

Vocations Trains For Future Jobs

Brush High School's vocations department was taught by Mr. Pierce, Mr. Petross, and Mr. Richards.

A three period class was offered during the morning to juniors and seniors.

Seniors were transported by bus to Hillrose where they were taught by Mr. Pierce.

Juniors were taught the basic principles by Mr. Petross at Snyder.

Freshmen and sophomores were given a two period course in the afternoon, freshmen being taught by Mr. Richards at Hillrose while Mr. Petross instructed the sophomores at Snyder.

The principal of these classes was to give first and second year students an introduction into the elementary fields of vocational training in order that third and fourth year students may be instructed in more advanced fields.

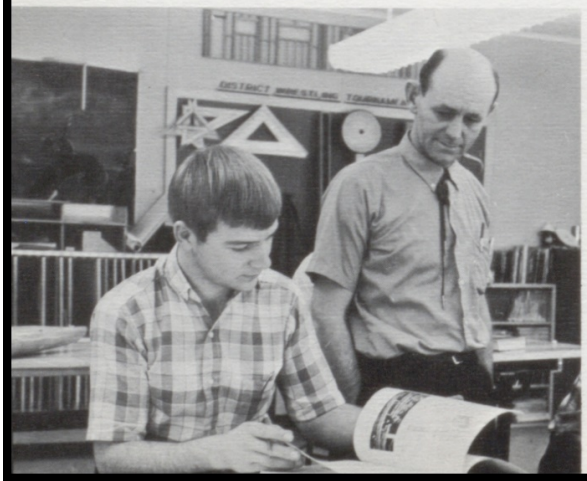

Shop Divided Into Two Areas

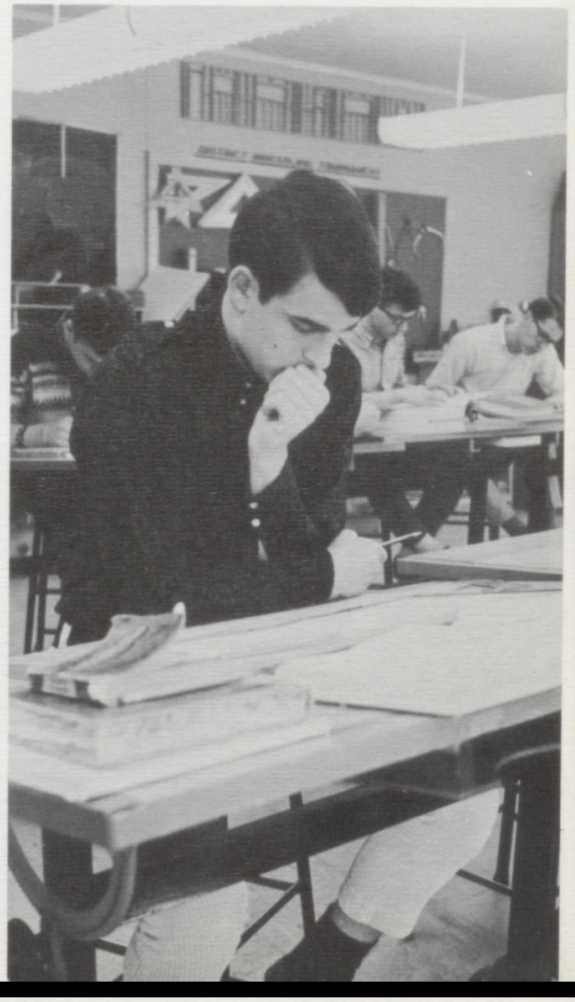

Mr. Ed Archer, instructor of the Industrial Arts classes, divided his course into two main areas: mechanical drawing and the construction of various shop projects.

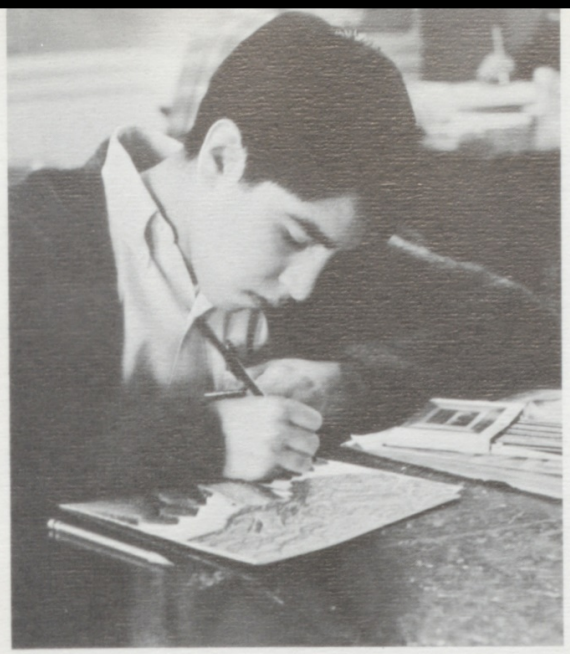

In the drawing room, Mr. Archer instructed his students on the different types of drawings by use of instruments and a drawing book.

The construction of projects portion of the course was carried out in the shop. There students assembled projects out of such media as plastics, fiber glass, and different types of wood.

Some of the items constructed during the year were lamps, book cases, skiis, and bowls of different shapes and sizes.

Art Dept. Exhibits Projects in March

Five periods of Mr. Terrell Sumner's school day were spent instructing two art classes and three craft classes.

The art classes worked in the area of oil painting, water colors, design, composition, color, and carving. A project that the class displayed was the Christmas scene erected over the gymnasium.

Mr. Sumner's course on crafts involved working with leather, wood, mosaic, lapadary, and jewelry projects.

The highlight of the year for the art department came when they exhibited in March the works of all the classes.

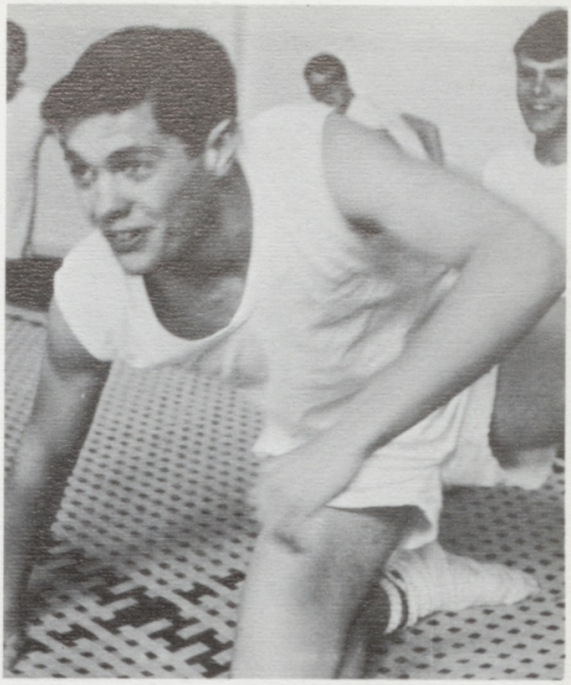

P.E. Proffered Varied Program

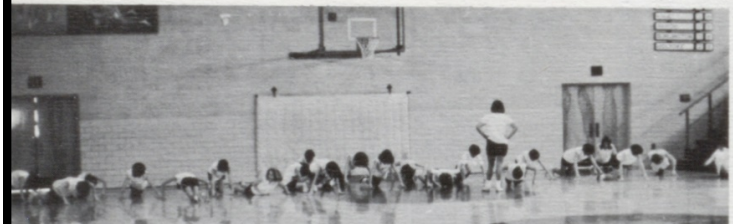

Keeping with the physical fitness program, P.E. students this year were active with many exuberant activities. Miss Margaret Mora, Girls' P.E. teacher, and Mr. Darrell Dilworth and Mr. Robert Hays, Boys' P.E. instructors had a busy schedule planned for their students. In the fall, the students were guided out of doors for football, soccer, and track. During the winter months, techniques of basketball and killerball were perfected, as most of their time was passed in the gymnasium. Archery, softball, and track were played in the spring.

Also, during the year a unit of gymnastics was presented, and a team of the best gymnastics was formed to present an exhibition to the school.

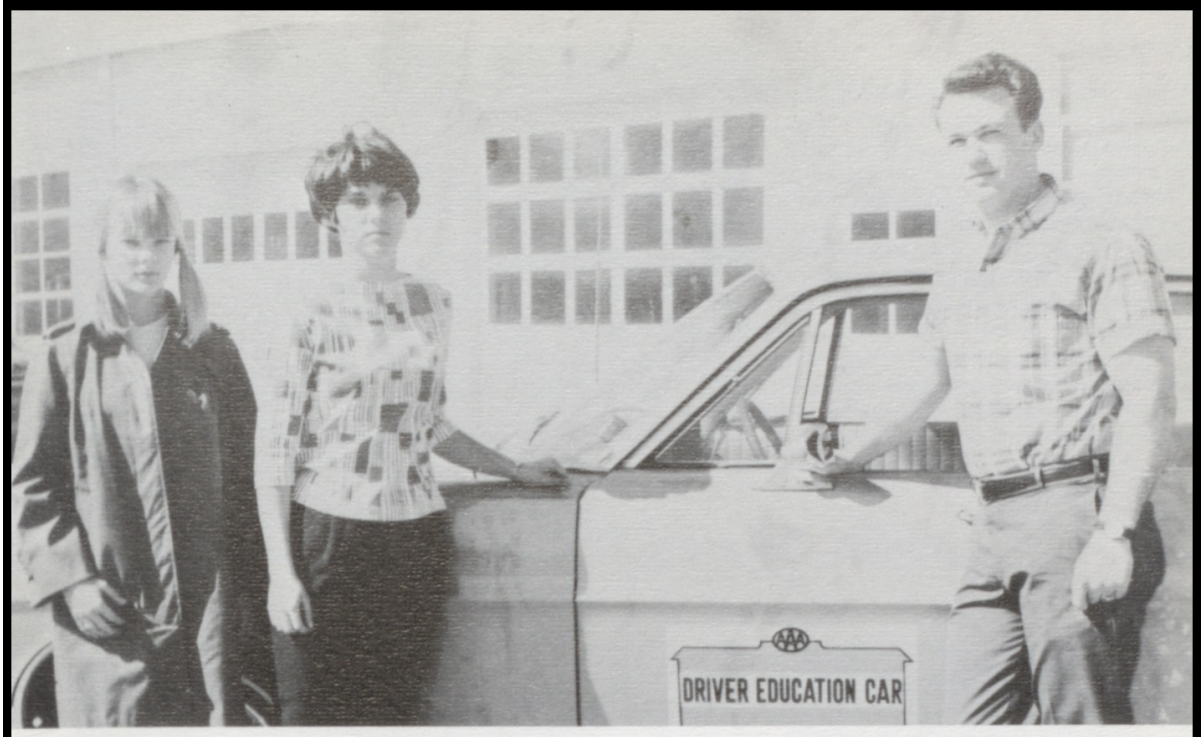

Sumner Teaches Driving Skills

Under the instruction of Mr. Terrell Sumner, this year's Driver's Education class consisted of about 50 members. This year the class was divided into two sessions, one each semester. The second session lasted for a week after school was out in order for the students to finish the course.

Students had to have 32 hours in the classroom, 6 hours behind the wheel, and 2 hours observing to complete the class. Among the classroom time, the students had to make reports, listen to lectures by Mr. Sumner, and hold discussions.

This year's Driver Ed car was a 1967 Galaxie 500 donated by Carroll Motor Company.

Along with learning the fundamentals of driving, the students had to have a working knowledge of the mechanics of their car.

As in the past, Speech was offered only

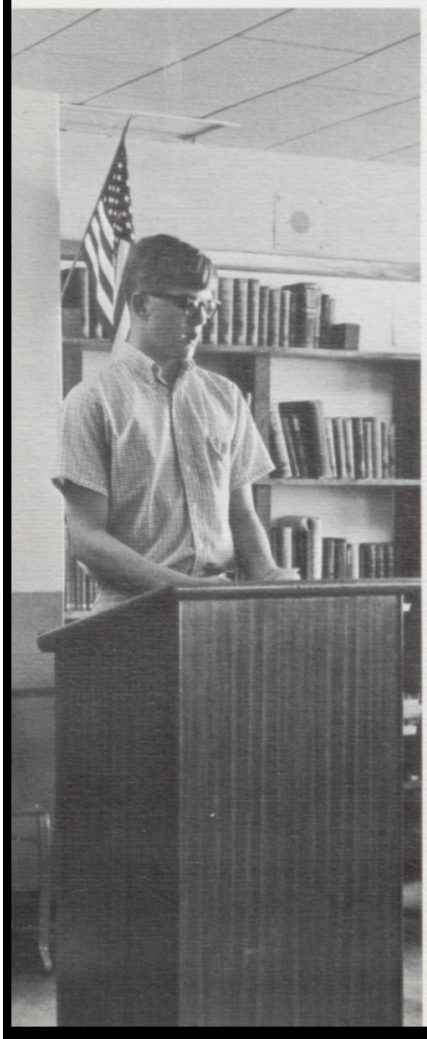

As in the past, Speech was offered only to Juniors and Seniors. During the first semester the upperclassmen were instructed in various ways of delivering speeches, such as, impromptu, convincing, demonstration, discussion panels, debates and narrative reading. The second semester was spent improving speech tecnhiques and some work was done involving radio and television.

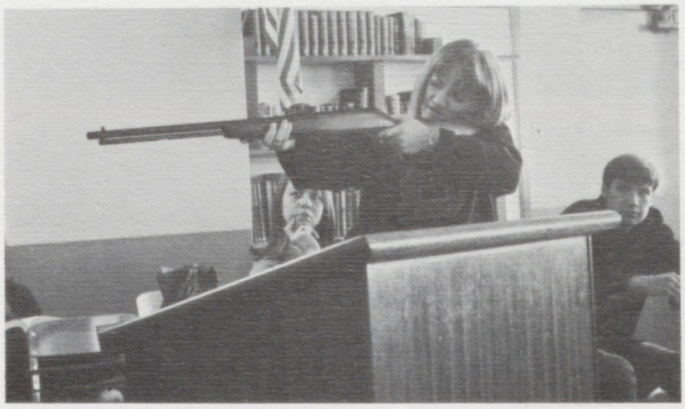

The Speech classes also presented the campaign speeches for the candidates running for next years Student Body offices.

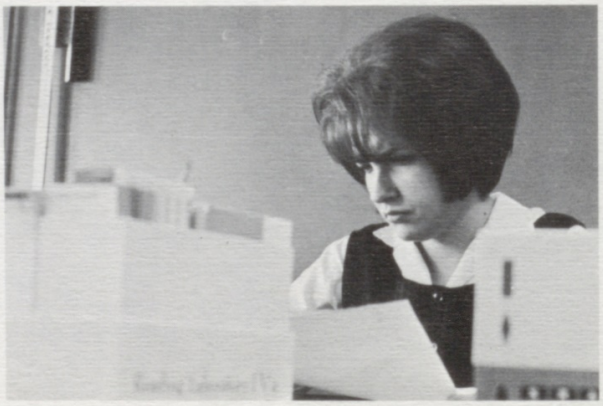

Mr. Thomas Woolley taught Speech for his fourth year.

Speech Offered To Upperclassmen

Only Teaching class for her first year, Mrs. Sandra Sumner instructed first period Speech class consisting of fourteen students.

Language Dept. Headed by Three

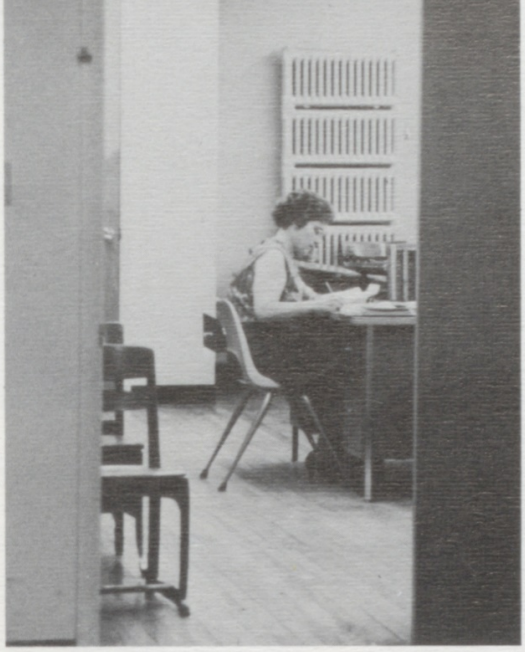

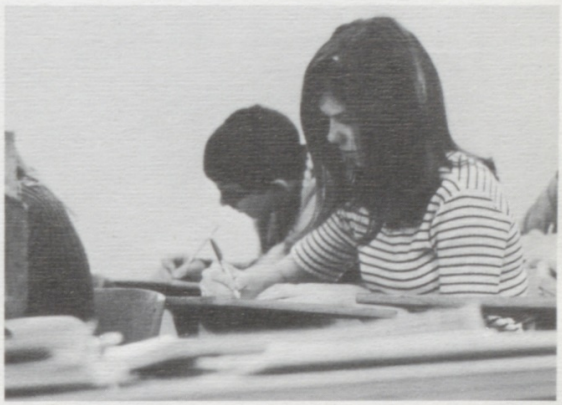

Mrs. Margaret Queen, Mrs. Eleise Bloom and Mrs. Martha Staby were the instructors for the Foreign Language Departments for the 1966-67 B. H. S. school year. The three instructors presided over seven Foreign Language classes.

Mrs. Bloom's (left) school day was composed of teaching two Latin I classes and one Spanish I, Spanish II and Latin II classes. German I and another class of Spanish I were instructed by Mrs. Staby and Mrs. Queen respectively.

Along with teaching their students the language of the countries, the three instructors also enlightened their pupils on various customs and traditions of the studied areas.

Business

Department Offers Job Training

Offering such courses as shorthand, typing, clerical practice, and bookkeeping, the Business Department of Brush High School prepared many students for further education or jobs following their graduation. Under the instruction of Mr. Robert Mitchell and Mr. Jerome Lynch, 96 students learned the techniques of typing, while Mr. Mitchell taught the basics of bookkeeping to 34 pupils.

During the 1967 year Miss Clerice Herbst was

Mr. Mitchell taught the basics of bookkeeping to 34 pupils.

During the 1967 year Miss Clerice Herbst was honored with the title of Distinguished Secretary of B. H. S. In order to attain this award, one must type 60 words per minute and take dictation at 120 wpm. Past recipients of this award are Sharon Littlefield and Linda Christensen, winners for the year of 1966.

Total enrollment for the Business Department was approximately 151, making this department one of the largest in Brush High.

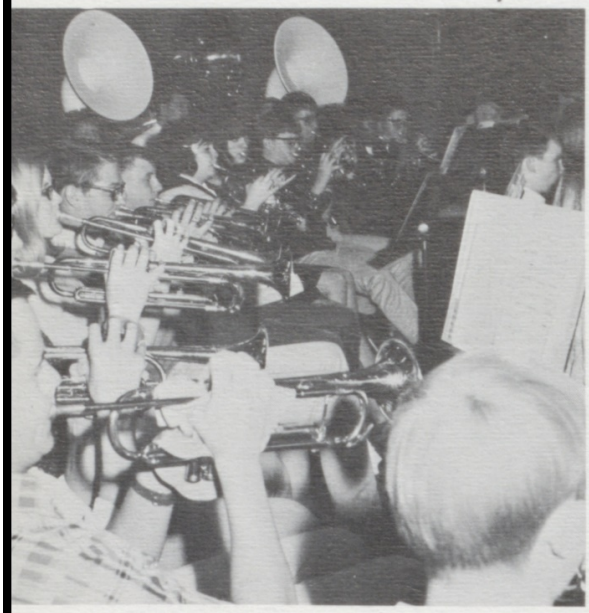

Musicians Present Spirited Programs

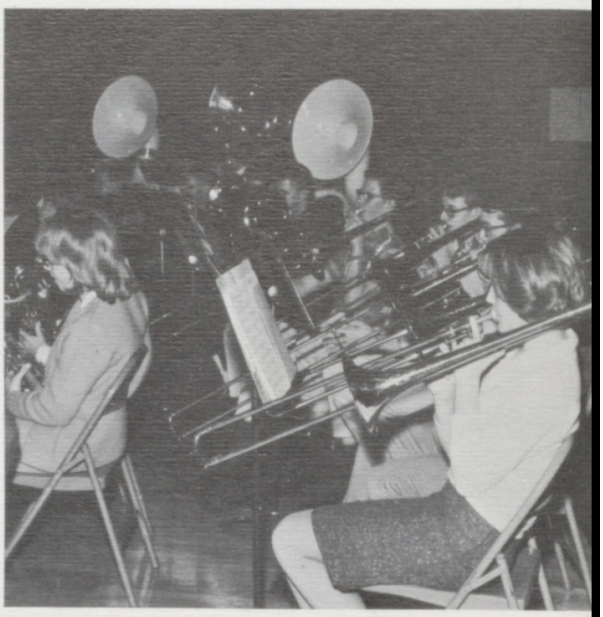

Directed by Mr. Don Hinton and Mr. Don Price, the BHS choir, Swing Band, All School Band added a spirited accent to the school enthusiasm. Performances by the bands were displayed during half times at basketball and football games, and at the pep assemblies.

Besides playing at sports events, the band members presented Spring and Winter Concerts. The 74 players also participated in League Band Festival and Honor Band. The Swing Band also took part in the Stage Band Clinic, receiving a 1 rating.

The Mixed Chorus and All Girl Chorus participated in the League Choral Festival and Honor Chorus. Highlighting the 1966-67 season, the musical department presented a May Concert.

Shikles Leads Seniors In Psychology Study

In his first year of teaching, Mr. John Shikles directed the seniors in their psychology studies. The students studied the various techniques of efficient learning, the process of thinking, the development of personalities, and the role of the family in America today. After a unit on the mental illnesses, which are present in the world today, the classes traveled to Denver to tour Ridge Home and Fort Logan Mental Hospital. An experiment in learning was performed to show the problems of learning something new under a foreign condition. With the whole school participating in a survey, a cross section of the feelings of teen-agers on friendship experiences was obtained.

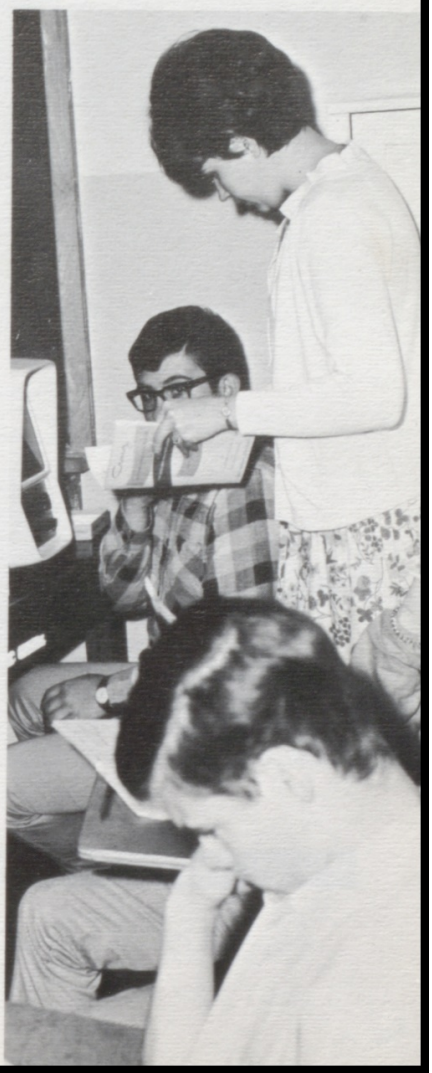

Sumner and Hanson Head Up Title I

Newly instituted, Title I is being taught by Mrs. Sumner and Mrs. Hanson. Mrs. Sumner, the Reading Lab instructor, first discovers the reading level of each individual and then lists skills which would help him increase his reading level. Programs used in her classes are rated simple to difficult, and each student starts at his own particular plateau of learning.

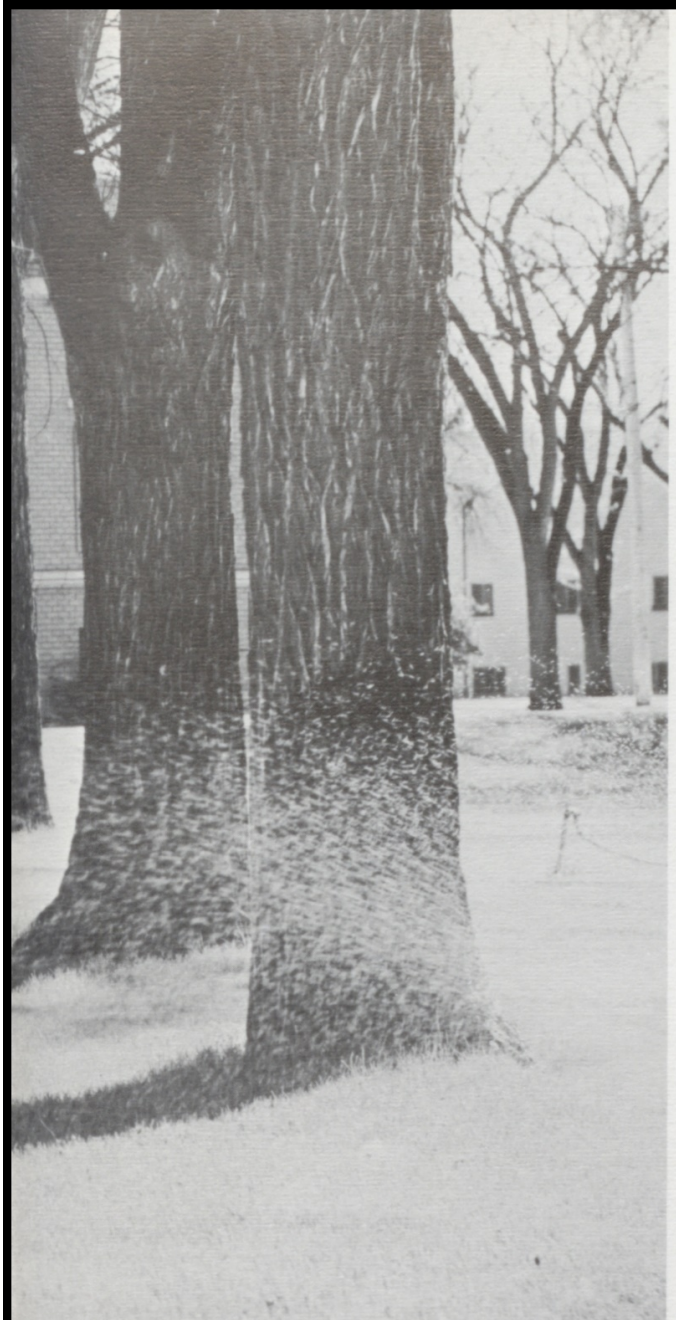

Mrs. Hanson supervises Home Nursing, a class where girls learn to care for a convalescent patient at home. They are taught how to recognize the signs of illness, to prepare a room for the patient, and to work in a daily schedule for the patient and family. Also the instruction of constructing equipment used at home, and the procedure in giving general care, making beds, and preparing foods and special diets are essential in Mrs. Hanson's program.

Children between the ages of three and seven were honored at a party given by the Home Nursing classes. In the latter part of the year, the students studied the difference between an ill child and one that is healthy. Shortly after this, the projects, which were built earlier in the year, were made available for group work. Each of these groups had a narrator and demonstrator who explained the projects.

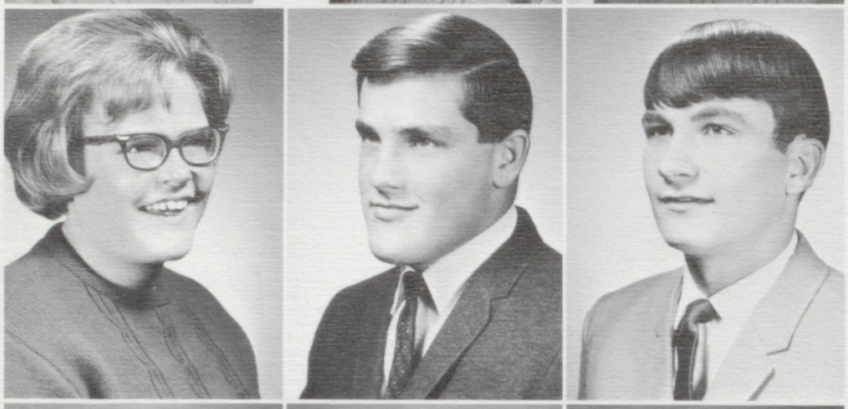

Pulling together as a group, the Class of 1967 worked on projects ranging from school competition to individual duties. Among the group activities were the Homecoming float competition, Student Council Talent Show, and Digger Day rivalry. As they were in their final year of security in high school the students began to realize the importance of planning for the future. While many were applying to the college of their choice, others were filling out application forms for business firms. They had to make all the necessary steps for their future education of job before leaving B. H. S.

Seniors Yield to Mixed Emotions

Gathering at the commencement exercises were the excited seniors who had worked together for high esteem; stood together in times of sorrow; and shared good times with laughter. Many were thoroughly overjoyed to be freed of the ties of the school, thinking, "I'll never see this place again!" However, for many it meant a time for giving a tender hug to a friend, a reverent clap on the back, and perhaps a lump in the throat, and a few tears burning in the eyes. As everyone leaves to go his own way, perhaps too far to see his classmates until a reunion in 25 years, he can remember the experiences of the Class of '67 as a part of him.

Because of short finances, the Junior Class worked diligently throughout the year 66-67 to raise enough money for the biggest event of the year, the Prom.

was running the concession stand during football, which is always reserved for the junior class. A drive for selling toothbrushes was next attempted which added a fair amount of money to the class treasury. When the year was drawing to a close and the Prom was near, a few eager juniors held a bake sale and collected pop bottles, adding the largest amount to the treasury during the year.

Because the Juniors seemed to have a loosing streak in everything they did at B. H. S., they were eager to present one of the best Proms ever given.

Mick Reno, class president, kept the meetings in order while Debby Bolinger presided as vice-president. Leslie Christensen was elected secretary while Chris Elling took the job of recording finances.

Presenting "Showdown at Sawtooth," the prom, selling toothbrushes, managing the football concessions stands for the 1966 season, and placing last in the junior entry for the Christmas skit are examples of the many projects the junior class completed.

Mrs. Queen and Miss Young sponsored the junior class and helped out in all of the projects. Both worked in the concessions stands.

"Showdown at Sawtooth" was a three act mystery-comedy presented by the junior class. Chris Elling is being interrogated by Rick George while Susan Kulp looks on. Chris, who was thought to be the villain, turned out to be the hero.

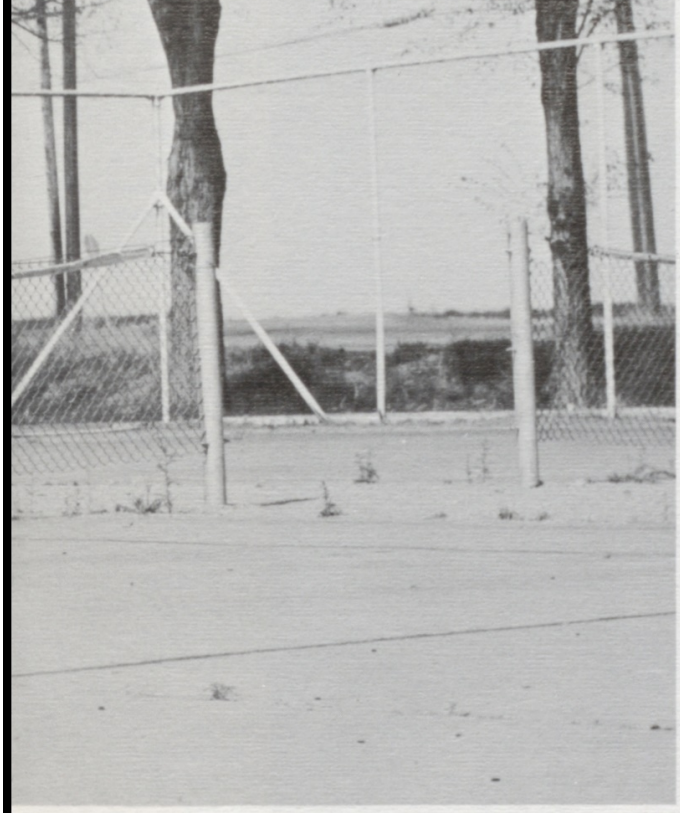

Beginning high school is an experience surpassed only by graduating. The underclassman finds himself suddenly in a world of studies, sports, and social activities. He faces four years which will determine his success or failure in life. Rejected by upperclassmen, he soon adjusts to his new life and finds that he is fast becoming a part of B.H.S., while Brush High becomes a part of him, as well.

With the pleasures of high school, also, come many hours of work. The under-of B.H.S., while Brush High becomes a part of him, as well.

With the pleasures of high school, also, come many hours of work. The underclassman learns how to adjust to homework, how to work on committees, and how to work as a team with his classmates.

By the end of his sophomore year antipathy toward high school has changed to pride, enthusiasm, and an eagerness to pursue a successful high school career.

Harbert Heads Frosh

September 1966, the freshmen class held their first meeting at B. H. S., supervised by their class sponsors, Mr. Woolley and Mr. Shikles. The 123 class members elected Danny Harbert to lead their class through the first year at high school, with Julie Opp as vice-president. Sharon Madsen was elected to handle the job as secretary-treasurer, after which class business began.

For the first two weeks, freshmen and other new students entering B. H. S. were required to attend Brush High's orientation, during which they were taught the rules and regulations that new students should be familiar with. Each activity period for thirty minutes, they restrained themselves from other activities and went each consecutive day. After they gave their time, they felt their place in school becoming more evident.

Emphasis on B. H. S. sports in '66-67 fell on state wrestlers Jim Tavenner, Dick Bostrom, Dennis Stolte, and state track members Rick Allen and Harold Sharp. All-conference team selections were guard Jim McNay in football and Herb Koehler in basketball.

Although Brush produced no state teams, school spirit remained high during the seasons with pep rallies and after game dances. One of the highlights of the year included the district wrestling tournament which Brush hosted. It was a two day affair in which all of the wrestlers of the conference made their bid for state berths.

Football Team Betters Preceding Year's Record

Meeting with moderate success this year's football team completed their 1966 football schedule with a record of four wins

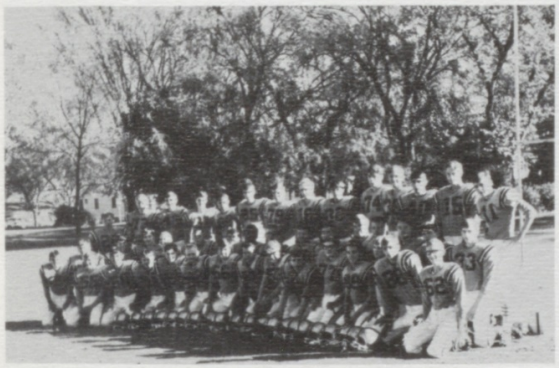

Meeting with moderate success this year's football team completed their 1966 football schedule with a record of four wins and five losses. Mr. Robert Hayes, returning to the head football coaching position after leaving in 1963, was assisted by Mr. Darrell Dilworth and Mr. Joe Edson in instructing this year's young team.

Practice began on August 23 as the fifty-five team members began to try to improve the preceding year's record of one win and eight losses.

Through team effort and school support the Beetdiggers triumphed over four of their first six opponents but dropped the last three. The leading ground gainer was Harold Sharp with 387 total yards. Leading defensive players were Dale Hall and Jim McNay, who was selected on the all-conference team.

First year wrestling coach, Darrell Dilworth, produced a squad this year that ended it's season in a record of seven wins and four losses. The team tied Burlington for second in the Northeastern conference, both sharing a record of three wins and two losses.

Brush was host of the District Wrestling Tournament which was held on the third and fourth of February. Of the eleven teams which participated Brush placed third, behind Burlington and Wray. Placing at the tournament and qualifying for state were Jim Tavenner, Kirk Christensen, Richard Bostrom, and Dennis Stolte. None of the four achieved a state title. Other team members include: Mike Church, Pat Toft, Dale Hall, Larry Milburn, Mike Cordova, and Bill Hauserman.

Under the direction of Head Coach Joe Edson, the varsity squad finished the season with an overall total of twelve wins and five losses. They achieved second place in the Northeastern conference, tied with Julesburg, as both had records of eleven wins and three losses. Yuma reigned as conference champions.

Brush Senior Herb Koehler was the leading league scorer, averaging 22.1 points a game and totaling 364 points. B-squad, under the direction of Coach Bob Hayes, ended the season with fifteen wins and two losses; while the freshmen, under Coach Bob Burton, had a total of seven wins and four losses.

Mark Atkins practices his pole vaulting technique while Chris Elling and Brian Massey polish their hurdling style. Harold Sharp, normally a sprinter, trys his talent at high jumping. Sharp ran 9.9 in the 100 yard dash at the Akron triangular meet and impressed the league officials, even though the time was disqualified because of wind conditions.

Shikles Heads Track for '67

Twelve trackmen participated in ten track meets under the direction of Coach John Shikles in a moderately successful track season in 1967. In a team that lacked experience with the exception of seniors Harold Sharp and Bob Sachs, new comers did well and in the case of freshman Rick Allen excellent.

Allen and Sharp highlighted the season with their performances at the District and State Track Meets. Sharp, a Brush High sprinter, won the 100 yd-dash at district and took second in the 220, qualifying for two events at the state meet. Rick Allen qualified for the state triple jump by taking third at district, Sharp took sixth in the 100 yard dash at state and Allen gained sixth in the triple jump.

The ten trackmeets included two Fresh-Sophomore meets, five varsity meets, and State and District. Brush gained two third places as a team, but individual standouts dominated most meets.

Burton's First Effort Ends With 4-7 Record

Coach Robert Burton's first year effort at coaching baseball ended in a record of four wins and seven losses. The Beetdigger team needed only to beat Burlington to go into the state tournament, but lost by a margin of eight to one.

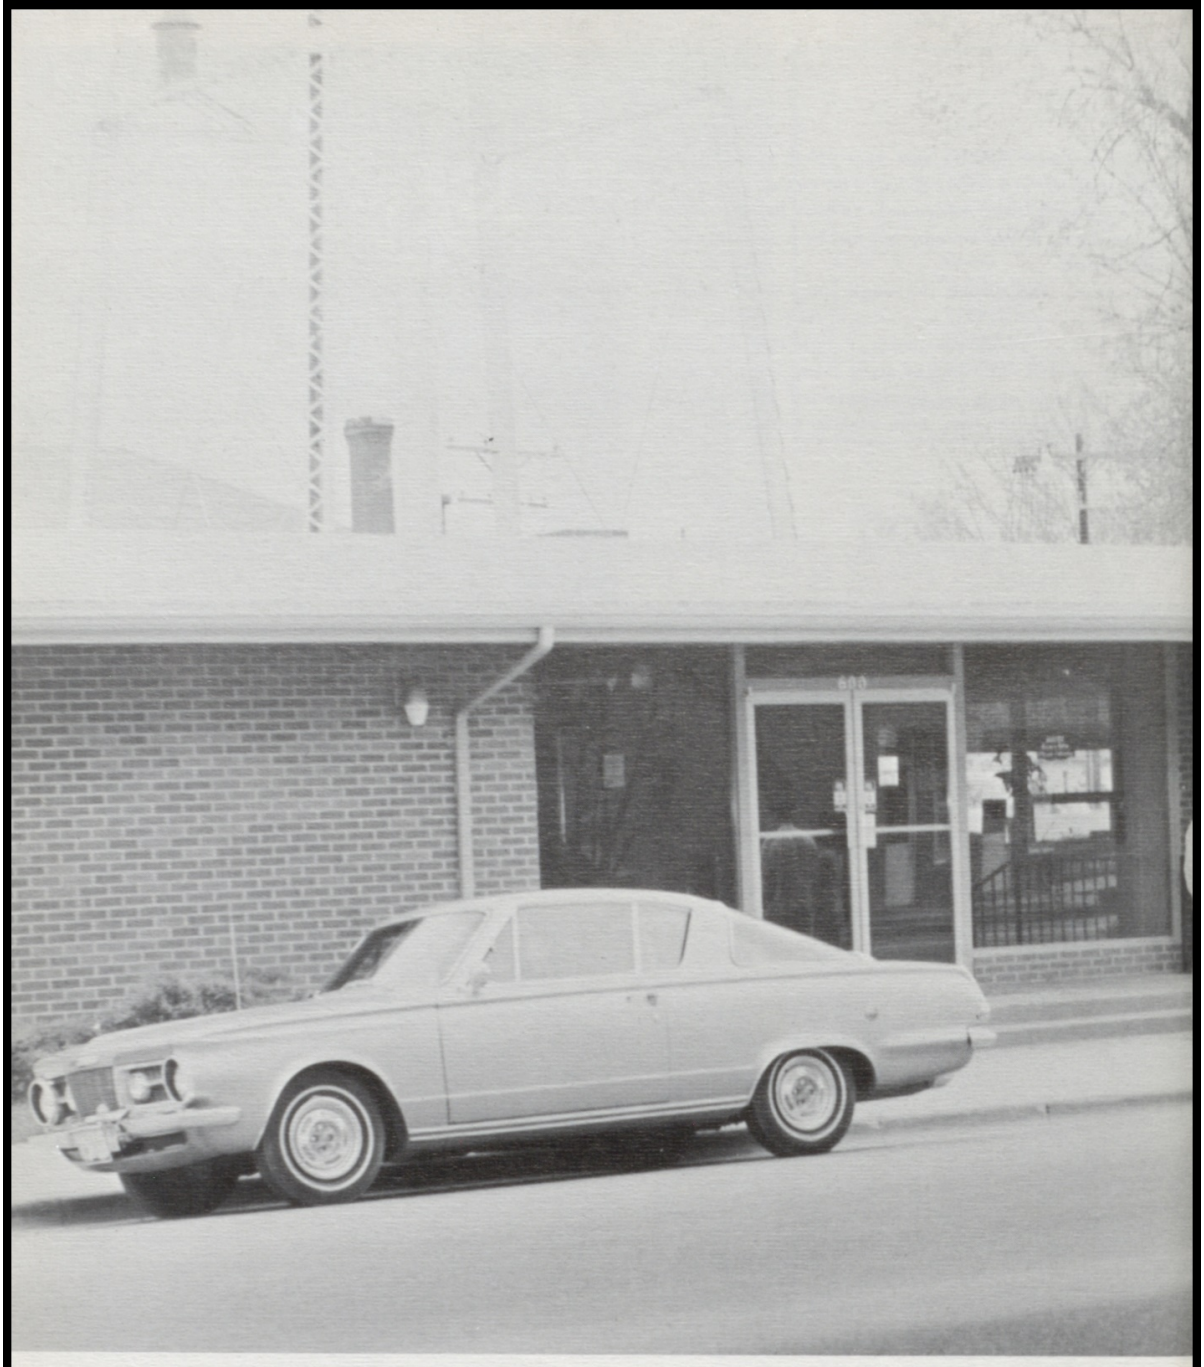

Errors, which were the weak point of the young team, were compiled to a total of fifty-eight in the eleven games. In team statistics, Senior Herb Koehler led with ten hits, followed by Steve Loose and Gladwin Beyer with eight each. Mike Stimson and Jim Spafford were the leading pitchers, both winning two games and losing two.

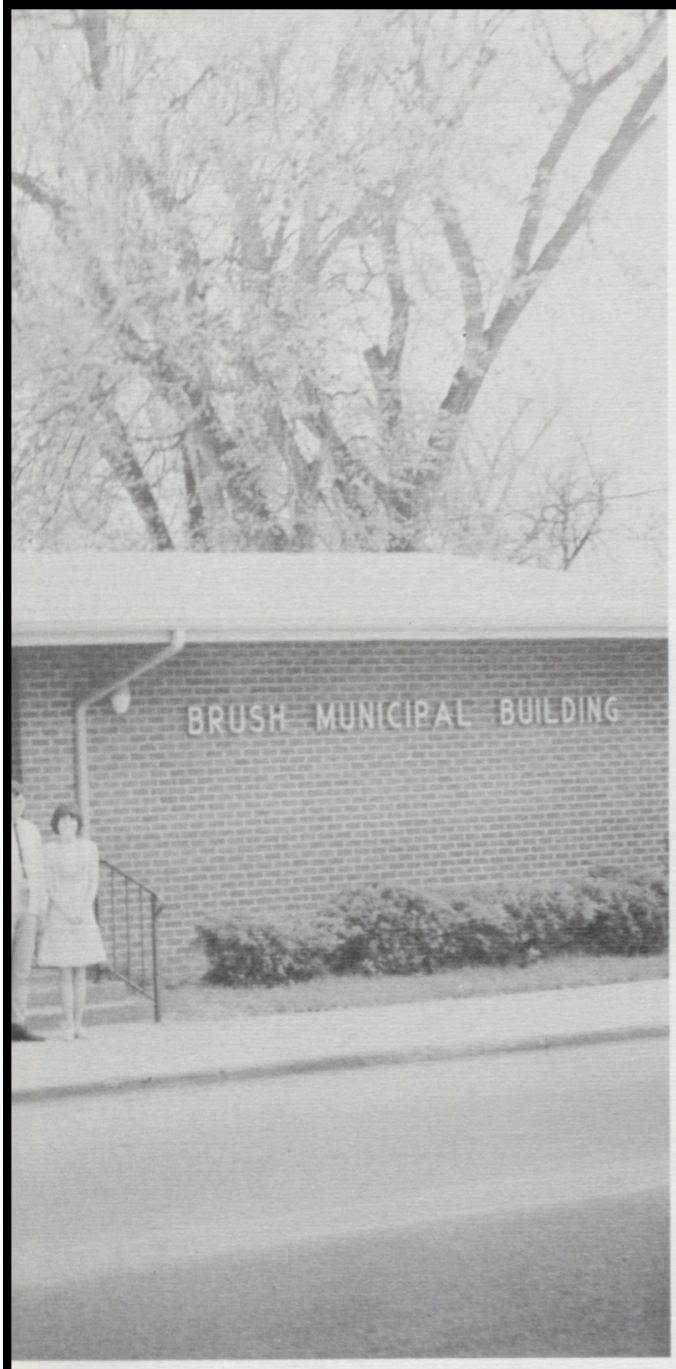

What is an organization? At Brush High School it is categorized as a club or activity which is set up to give students pleasure and get them interested in something. Each student is encouraged to take part in at least one organization, but there is no limit as to how many one may belong. Several join as many as they have time for and still wish to belong to more.

Different organizations offered at Brush High are Pep Club, International Relations Club, B Club, Future Farmers of America, Future Teachers of America, Future Homemakers of America, Rodeo and Music Club, Thespians, and Rifle and Radio Club. All of these had a very successful year and completed several projects.

ORGANIZATIONS

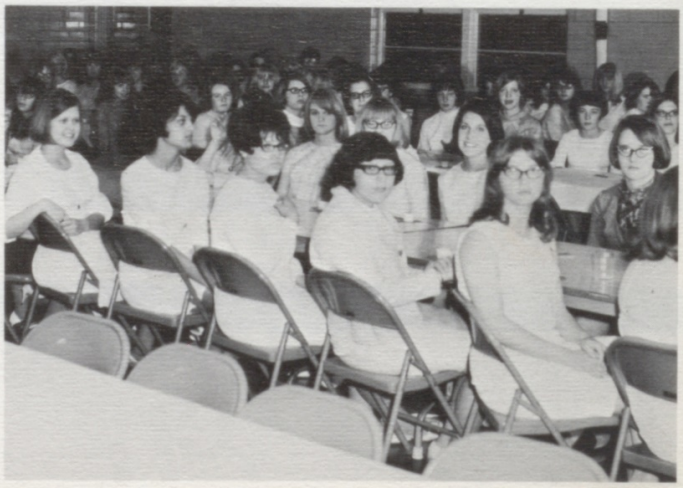

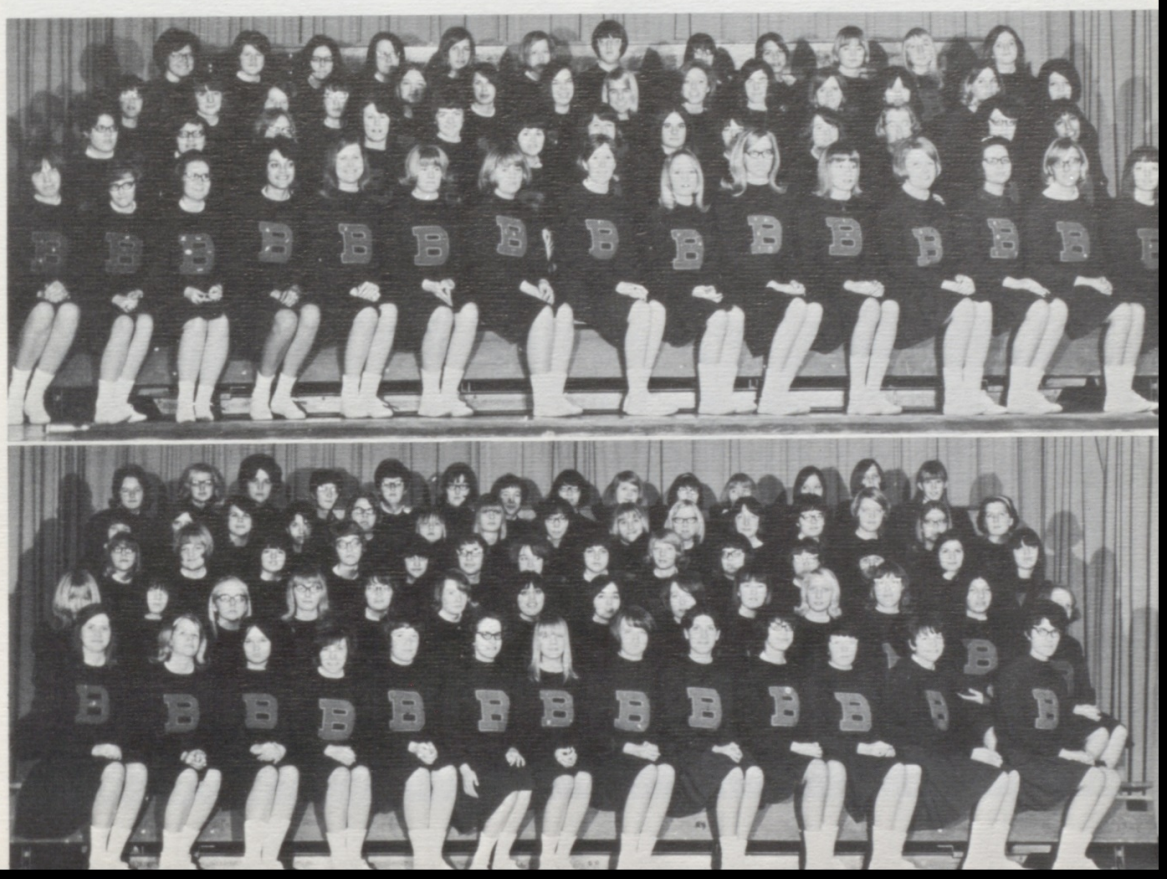

Pep Club, with 150 girls belonging, this year had the highest membership since it was formed. Besides hosting the annual Sweetheart Dance, the organization sponsored cake raffles and bake sales. On April 24, the annual banquet was held and cheerleaders and outstanding girls were announced. Officers were elected the following week. Sponsors were Miss Mora and Mrs. Hancock.

Pep Club Boosts Spirit

IRC Boosted to Forty-One

International Relations Club was established in 1957 to bring together students interested in National and International problems. Since then it has been one of the more popular activities with this year's membership boosted to forty-one.

Night meetings were held once a month at which guest

In the fall, the members sold magazines to help pay for conference expenses.

F.F.A. Attends Delta Convention

Delta Convention

Highlighting the year for the F. F. A. members was the state convention at Delta, where twelve boys attended. They also raised 155% lamb crop from the chapter ewes and won the county record book contest for the fourth consecutive year.

Heading this organization were Kurt Wolfe, Pres.; John Crosthwait, Secretary; Alan Harryman, Treasurer; Ron Dones and Ron Richards, Reporters; Phil Peters, Sentinel; and Mrs. Richards as sponsor.

This group sponsored several activities during the year of 1966-67. These were farming Clint Blauer hay and the continuation of the Sheep Laboratory Flock. Other events participated in by the members were the concession at the Jr. Fair with the F. H. A. girls, and attending state judging events and the Grand Prix at the Cinerama in Denver.

F.T.A. Explores Teaching

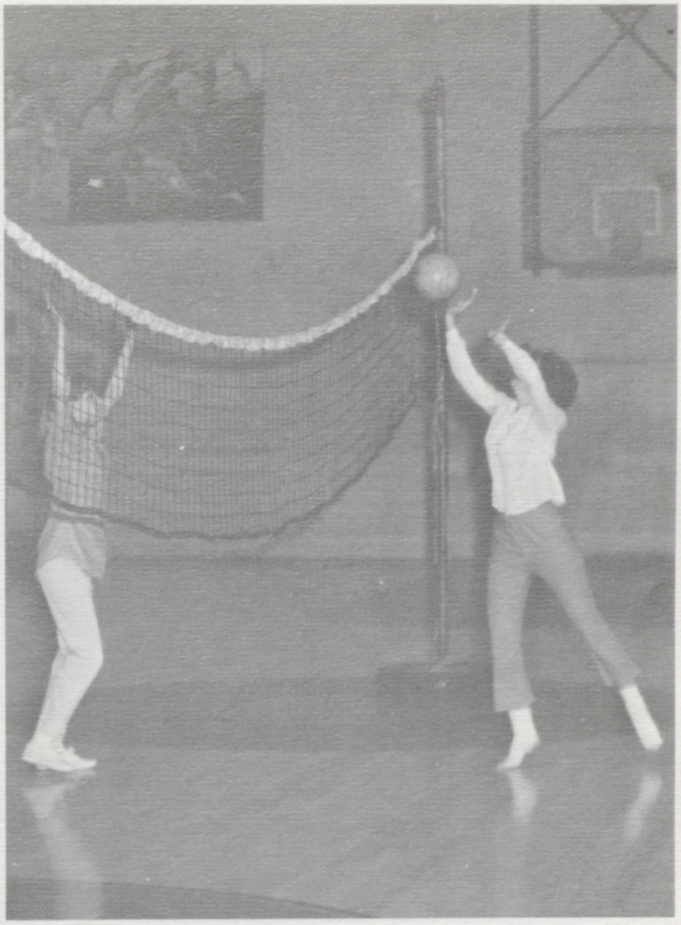

Sponsored by Mrs. Travis and Mr. Neill, the Future Teachers of America carried on various activities throughout the year. The officers in F. T. A. included Christine Dahms, president; Gloria Paulsen, vice president; La Rue Mortensen, secretary; Elaine Baade, treasurer; and Susan Kulp, historian.

Money making activities included selling refreshments at a basketball game and one day of the district tournament and selling paper back books. In selling these paper back books, a small store was set up at noon at the top of the stairs by the auditorium. Special projects were the observation of other teachers and programs of special speakers talking on different phases of education.

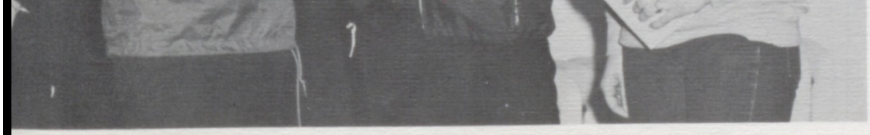

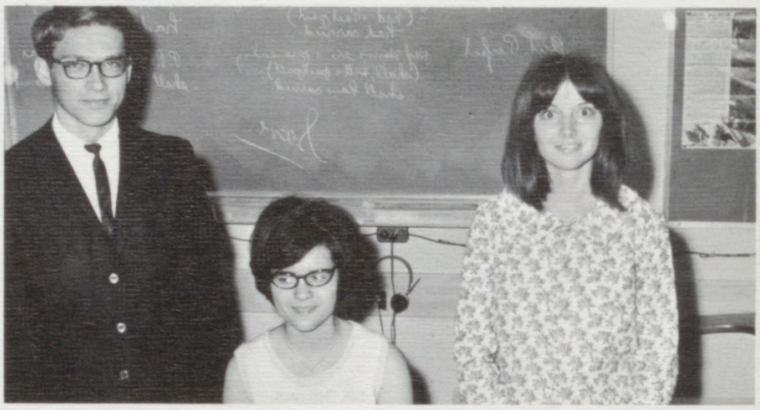

The highlight of the year was the annual picnic. Although rain and bad weather forced the party indoors, a hamburger fry was held and recreation followed.

At left are shown pictures of the Future Teacher members participating in the recreation. The four girls are shown as they are ready to go out on a scavenger hunt. Other members are also shown playing volleyball.

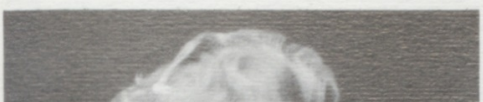

Thespians Promote Amateur Theater

Performances by Energetic Musicians Please Many

After many hours ot tedious practice, the Brush High School Music Department presented concerts in the spring and winter, and combined with the grade school branch of music for a massed band concert also in the spring. Participating in these exhibitions of talent were the Swing Band, Marching Band, Mixed Chorus, and Girls' Chorus, directed by Mr. Don Price and Mr. Don Hinton. In addition to the concerts, the music division of the school also added to the sports events and took part in several music festivals with schools in the area.

Fledgling G.A.A. Takes Ski Trip

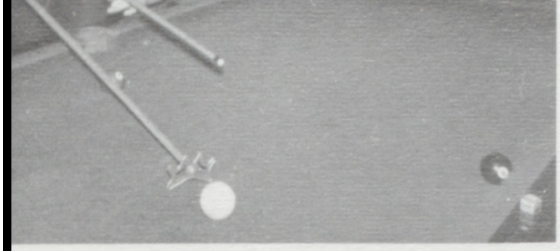

B. H. S. 's newly formed Girls Athletic Association (GAA) found their first year as a chartered group at B. H. S. occupied by numerous and various activities. Among these were a speed sportsday at Brush and basketball, volleyball, and track sportsday at Julesburg, Yuma, and Haxtun respectively.

Sponsored by Miss Margaret Mora, the 45 members held a cake raffle, bake sale, and car wash to raise funds. With these funds they were able to attend open houses at both CSC and CU.

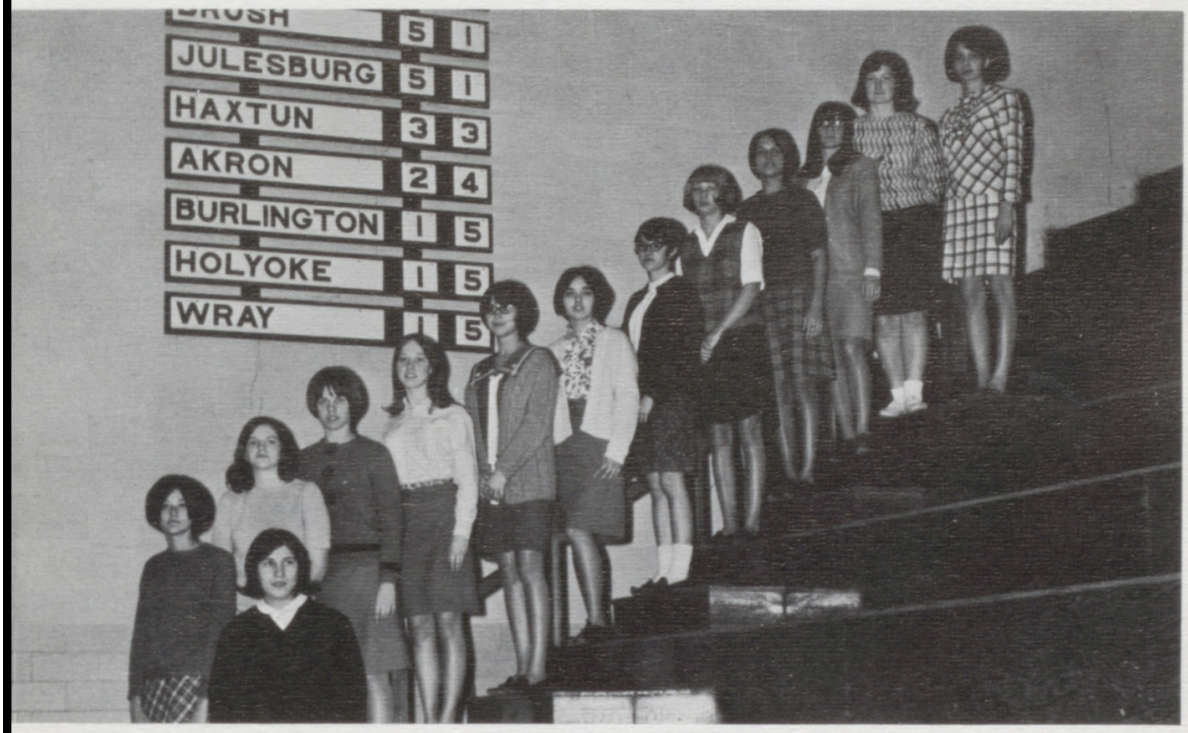

In early March the girls, sponsored by Miss Mora, Mr. Archer, Miss Skinner and Mrs. Hancock went to Hidden Valley in Estes Park on a weekend ski trip.

This year Brush High School was proud to announce that twenty nine students received scholarships and awards for outstanding achievements in certain fields.

Sixteen Students of the Month were selected by the members of the Student Council for the school year 66-67. These students were chosen according to citizenship, leadership, and scholarship.

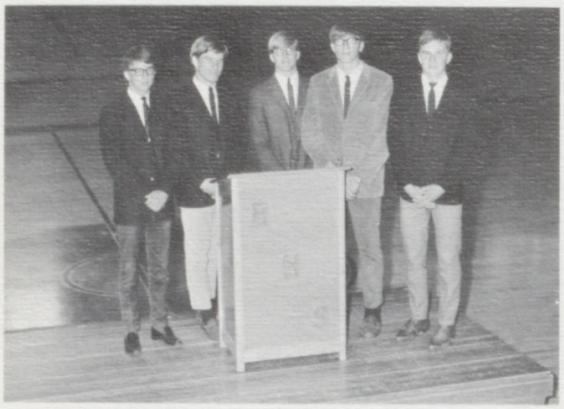

Angelica Hansch and Diana Olson were chosen as the reigning Prom and Homecoming Queens. Selected as the Senior Prom attendant was Kathy Swinson while Nancy Mitchell completed the queens court as Junior attendant.

Members of both Junior and Senior Honor Society were selected by the teachers at B. H. S. The selected students had to rate high in scholarship, leadership, and citizenship.

Each year a certain number of junior boys and girls are chosen to attend Boy's and Girl's State. This year Kathy Mann, Leslie Christensen, and Susan Kulp were selected by the Women's Auxiliary for Girl's State with Jean Asheim, Nancy Mitchell, and Pam Weisbart as alternates. Attending Boy's State will be Dennis Stolte, Dennis Salzman, Kirk Christensen, Chris Elling, and Rick George. The American Legion also chose Alan McDaniel as an alternate. ACTIVITIES

Fall Climaxed

Excitement prevailed over the BHS student body the week of October 7, 1966. It was homecoming and with homecoming comes a snake dance, bon-fire, construction and showing of floats, a football game, crowning of a queen, and the dance.

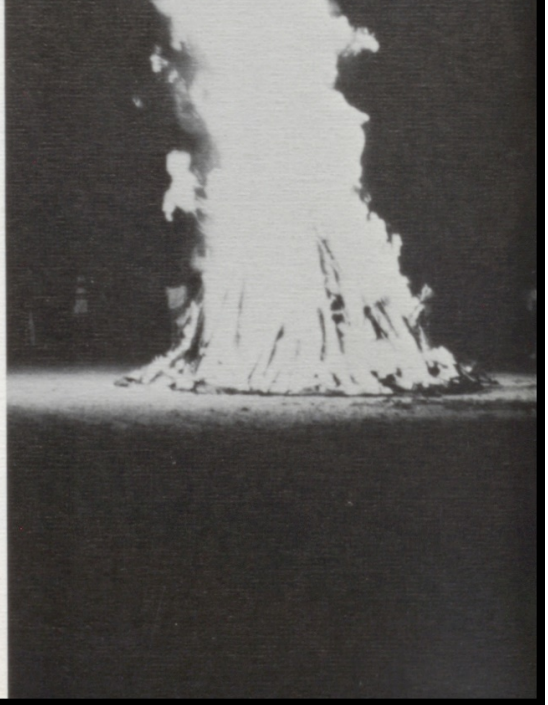

Starting from the high school on Thursday, October 6, the Pep Club girls joined hands and followed the varsity cheerleaders to the bon fire. After the bon fire last minute preparations were completed on the floats.

Friday afternoon was a picture of mass confusion as the various clubs and classes organized themselves for the parade of floats to the downtown section.

After the rally winners of floats were announced. The sophomores took first followed by seniors, frosh and juniors, respectively.

Action was seen at 7:30 when the Beet-diggers played host to the Holyoke Dragons and beat them 19-7.

During the half Diane Olson, Colette Schilling, Angelica Hansch, and Kathy Swinson, queen candidates, nervously awaited the crowning results. Harold Sharp crowned Diane Olson the 1966 Homecoming queen.

Couples danced to music of the Justin Martyrs from 10:00 to 1:00. A reenactment of the coronation was carried out by George Sears.

Sweetheart Dance Highlights Winter

Highlighting the winter activities was the annual Sweetheart Dance sponsored by Pep Club. This girl-ask boy affair's theme was "Somewhere My Love" from Dr. Zhivago.

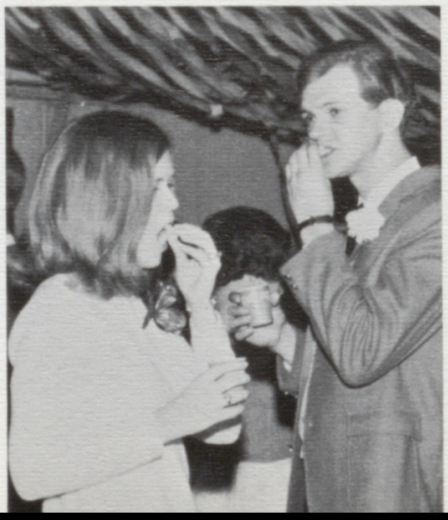

Entertaining the group, the Tremmors from Denver kept the dance swinging with lively, modern music.

Herb Koehler was crowned Mr. Beetdigger while Tim White and Harold Sharp were his attendants.

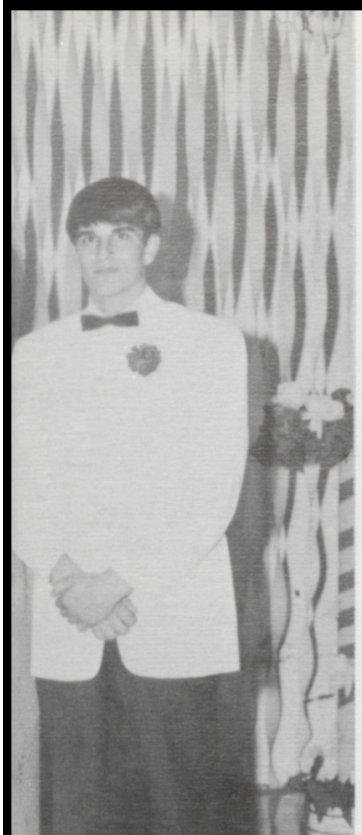

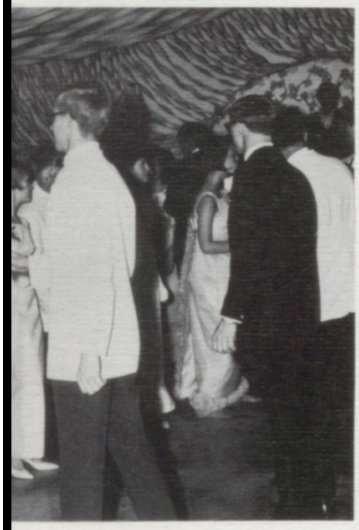

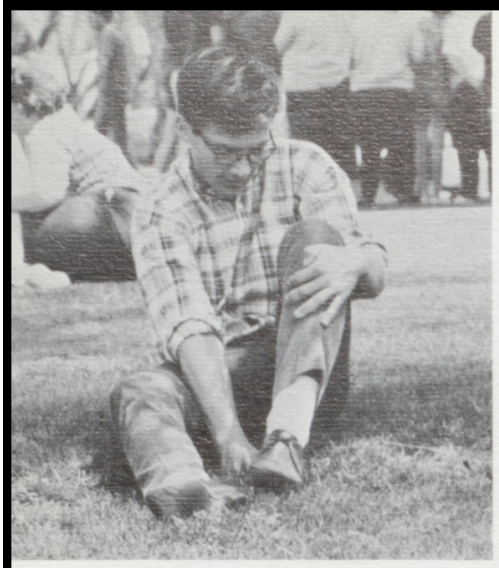

Angelica Hansch Crowned During Prom Ceremonies

Angelica Hansch was crowned Prom Queen by Chris Elling, treasurer of the Junior Class, during the 1967 Junior-Senior Prom. Completing her court were Kathy Swinson, the Senior Attendant, escorted by Jon Bostron and Junior Attendant, Nancy Mitchell, presented by Ken Knight.

This prom was decorated with pink, lavender, and white crepe paper, strung across the ceiling, imitation stone work covering the walls, and yellow rose bushes placed around the room. These combined gave the recreation room an atmosphere of a summer garden, accenting the theme "Some Enchanting Evening".

175 guests attended the annual highlight of the dancing season.

Dampness Plagues D-Day

Student Council sponsored the third annual Digger Day May 12, which replaced Sadie Hawkins Day in 1965. The day's activities included softball, volleyball, ping pong, and tennis. Music for the dance held Friday night was provided by the Sweetish Raque.

Awards were given to first place winners, and the Class of 1967 was, for the second consecutive year, awarded the plaque for overall champion.

Debby Bolinger, a spy, tries to stall so that she may escape, although it appears that her intentions are not all together respectful.

Pam Weisbart is pictured using a telephone calling for help, while Chris Elling is just content to watch.
