Cross - EYED AND painful

It is sometimes hard to put the high school experience into words. One moment finds us laughing so hard we think we'll go cross-eyed. The very next moment can be so painful, we wonder how we'll make it to graduation. These are our cross-eyed and painful moments...Sagebrush 2001.

Cory Keen, junior, flips for school, while Jake Hastings watches in awe

Emily Oakley, Sarah Tolentino, and Ashley Stevens happlily congregate on the sidewalk downtown.

Upper-

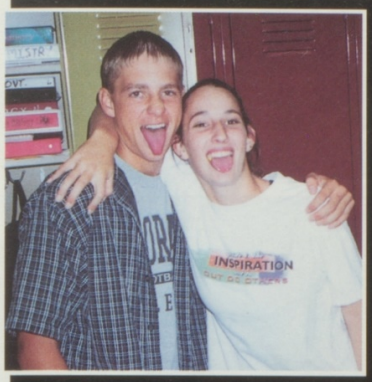

Upper-Classmen

Living in Pain!

The Joys and Pains of Students' Lives

Upper Left: Lucas Ingmire and Heidi Curtis show their great tongue action. These two have lots of love for each other, can't you tell?
Above: Jena Hollingshead, Mia Fowler, and Rachel Perez show off their modeling skills. They smile big and strut their stuff.

Left: Ashley Odle and Amanda Collier show how their friendship has survived the many years of school. They have grown closer each year and look so cute together.

Above: Alan Krob models a quirky shirt while displaying some missing items from the local Wendy's during a passing period.

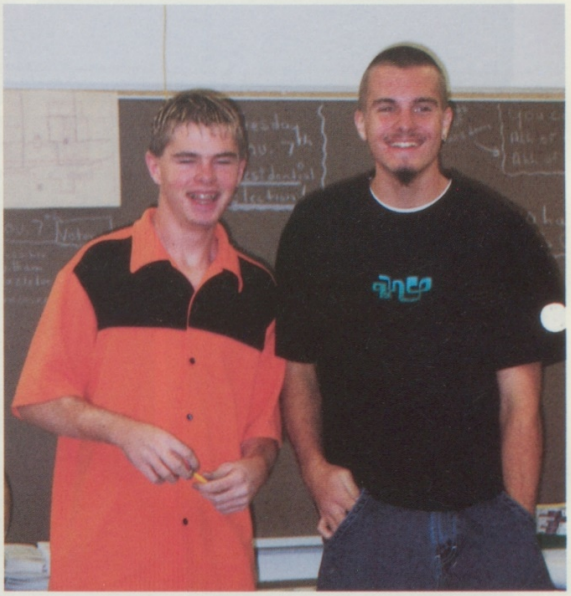

Above: Seth Erickson is not only creative in school, but also in style. Leather jackets are a must-have for students at BHS.

Left: Rocky Martinez poses naturally as though he hasn't got a care in the world. Pink in the house. Rocky sure is popular with the ladies.

Below: Cory Keen and Evan Williamson stand timidly in front of Mr. Dillehay's third hour class while showing off their individuality.

AN Eye Full

pink tank top worn with black pleather pants stands alone in the trendy field.

ORANGE AND BLACK
may seem like Halloween colors to some, but can turn into a moderately trendy experience if put with the right pants.

BRIGHT BLUE
leopard printed pants mixed with a nice metallic blue top may appear a little "risky" to some.

Working Pains

Work is painfully cross-eyed.

Work is painfully cross-eyed.

"Will this be a deposit or a withdrawl?" questions Ashley Odle, as she stands behind her counter at the Bank of Colorado. Her co-workers say, "She gives us more grief than anyone else we know!"

"May I help you?" Misty Contreras chats for a moment while on her break. When asked about future plans, Misty replied,"I plan on attending Berkeley University in the fall."

Above: "Would you like fries with that?" is commonly asked by Wendy's employees CristobalRodriguez,Aaron Jorgensen, Tiffany Holman, and Meghan Headley. "I really like my job. It's fun working with Aaron," Cristobal said.

Left: Tammy Bass and Lana Goff work Eben Ezer. "I really like my job, but it's overwhelming at times," Lana said.

Right: Aaron Jorgensen does a little jig on the job at Wendy's

Far Right Center: Working on the farm is Kalianne Pabst. It takes a real woman to scoop poop.

Right Center*: "I have worked at Arby's for three months, and I really like it," comments Jennifer Mathies.

Eye on Clubs

Students have the opportunity to be involved in many school activities and clubs. Clubs not only help students get involved with their school, but students also get involved with their community. Clubs that are avaliable at BHS are DECA, FBLA, FFA, CIA, FCCLA, Academic Decathlon, Interact, Knowledge Bowl, Forensics, Student Council, Art Club, Sportsman's Club, Spanish and French Club, and Math and Science Club.

Athletes are not limited to school activities

Many students have interests in sports that Brush High does not offer. Such as swimming, shooting, soccer, rodeo, drill team , and hockey. Jeremy Burhost and Erin Ely participate in swimming at Sterling High School. Alicia Trujillo and Amanda Collier enjoy the sport of shooting. Carla Poma, Juliane Cox, and Michelle Weimer are on the Ft. Morgan High School soccer team. Particants in the rodeo are Casey Decker, Audrey Decker, and Kaycee Nelson. Erin Madsen is on the drill team in Ft. Morgan. Jeremy Naeve and Chris Martinez show their love for hokey.

Brush High encourages the students to explore and discover any personal hobbies. Any student is welcome to join sports that interest them.There is no pain in being active outside of school. That is what these students are expressing. The students have expressed themselves as individuals just by being active in other sports. They also meet new people from many places, whether they are on the same team or competeing against them. There is never too much room for fun and games. If thats what you are looking for, sports are one way to find it.

Cross-eyed Decisions

Student Council Life

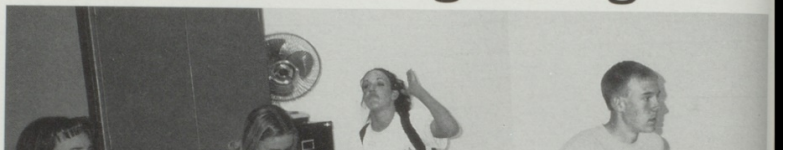

This Year's Student Council

This was a good year for student council. The Homecoming week was fun. Luckily, no one got hurt at powderpuff. All the other activities were successful as well.

The dances were successsful this year because attendance was high.

The first Friday of every month we had cookie break at 9:45. Mr. Krob said it was the highlight of everyone's month, and we agree.

Interact

The BHS and Brush Rotary Club Interact club is all about being with the kids. The members of the club periodically went to Beaver Valley Elementary and spent two hours with the little kids. They'd discuss important things with the kids such as music, friendship, sports, classes, and family. They talked about problems they could experience in any of subjects and how they could handle them. They played games and made intsruments. Mentoring the kids was also a part of Interact.

Interactors also did communtiy service like planting trees, cleaning up streches of highways and selling Brushopoly to members of the community. They also went to conventions to learn how to be better leaders and how to handle the issues that were presented to them by the Beaver Valley students. "I really enjoyed working with the younger children and learning from them," senior member Erin Ely said of her experience.

" I liked meeiting the kids and playing games with them," junior Ashley Crowder said,"I feel like I have influenced them for later in life."

Diggers are fierce competitors

No matter what their teams' records might be, BHS student athletes always put forth their best effort, which is why students and community members enjoy supporting them.

Highlights of this year in Brush

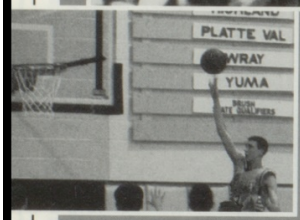

In addition to participating in sports at BHS, some students join teams of neighboring schools to play soccer or swim, while others choose to ride in rodeos.

...BHS has spirit.

and community members enjoy supporting them.

Highlights of this year in Brush sports include the football team's victory in Florida, hosting the first home cross country meet, sending seven wrestlers to state, the incredible boys basketball season, and strong finshes at state track. Some may also recall the potted beet's appearance in the gym, or the red-caped rat at wrestling.

play soccer or swim, while others choose to ride in rodeos.

Some teams managed winning records while others didn't fare so well, but they always try to have fun, and for most, there's always next year. For some seniors, there will also be a next year, as they will go on to play in college.

Football "A NEW ERA"

Diggers in Action

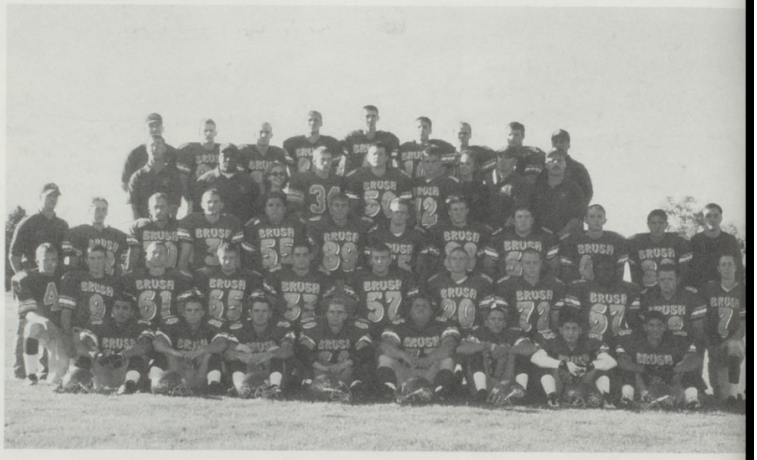

The Diggers showed heart and determination throughout the 2000 season.

Starting Fresh

The 2000 Beetdigger football team took the field for the first time in over two decades without the guidance of Coach Larry Mills at the helm. Long-time Assistant Coach Randy Dreitz took over with high expectations for his first year, not only on the field, but off the field as well. Although the Diggers win total was not what the players and coaching staff had hoped for, they worked hard and and gained valuable experience in both football and in life. With many underclassman coming back, the future looks bright for the Diggers as they prepare to regain there spot as one of the elite football programs in the state of Colorado.

All Across The Diamond

Take Me Out to the Ball Game

Baseball is a popular and fun sport to play. Many people played this year and many fans came to watch and support their team.

This season was fun and hard. The players seemed to enjoy it though. Some got sick and others got hurt, but when they were playing they had fun. "Even though I came down with mono I still had fun," said Eric Ingmire.

The Brush varsity made it to all conference and regionals. They got knocked out of regionals by La Junta.

Coach Muniz said that he thought that the team went far, despite the hard season.

Everyone on all three teams worked really hard in order to win. Sometimes they didn't win as they had hoped.

Even though they didn't win as much as they had hoped all of their fans still showed up to cheer them on. Their classmates came and showed their school spirit.

During this season everyone learned a lot that they will be able to apply later on if they continue in their baseball careers.

A Day in the Life of BHS: Gross-eyed and Painful

It's May 24, and school gets out in a week. The seniors graduate on Saturday. Freshman are anxious to become sophomores and no longer be the low man on the totem pole. Sophomores are ready to become upper classmen. Juniors already feel like seniors. As school winds down, the seventy- degree weather makes everyone anxious to be outside and free from school responsibilities. In class, we're preparing for finals, but in the hall there's time to blow off some steam and have fun with friends.

Across the green

Right on par

The golf team travels near and far to hit the links, but they don't mind; golf games take place during the school day!

FORE!

The varsity golf team finshed third in the league this year, led by Michael De Long, Bryson Miller, Adam Alexander, and Brock Ray.

The team, coached by Mr. Mussell and Mr. Krob, practices at Bunker Hill Country Club.

"Golf is fun!" said Mr Krob.

Brock Ray agrees. "It was fun being outside and missing school."

The golf team enjoyed their travels in school Suburbans, but they're waiting for the day that they get to take the district's station wagon to a match.

Is one of these guys the next Tiger?

Left: Lonnie Vetch shows some of the fun and crazyness of BHS. Or maybe there is just something wrong with him.

Left: Oliva shows that the life at BHS is a total kick in the butt. She is also believes it is easier to learn if she is up side down.

Young, Tyson 93

Zemlicka, Darrin

Left: Tara Campbell and Cristina Sepulveda put on wacky face as they are learnig spanish with Mrs. Perry.

Last Look at 2000-2001

We learned. We made new friends, and said goodbye to some others. Each of us takes goodbye to some others. Each of us takes away a unique set of memories of both good times and bad, the exciting and the every day.

The roar of the crowd.

Cross-eyed and Painful

A daily occurance: students sit on the floor of the senior hallway before school starts, sometimes sleepy, sometimes energized and ready to antagonize passers-by.

Practice makes perfect for BHS band students.

Dan Allen studies in the commons.

Erin Madsen manages a smile while giving blood.
